DESCRIBES RED DIVISION'S ROUT

Slush and Rain to Cut County's Vote to 4,500

INTEREST LAGS THROUGHOUT 17TH DISTRICT

Check of Precincts Indicates Only 40 Per Cent of Normal Vote in Today's Primary.

MORE REPUBLICANS OUT

9 Ballots in First 4 Hours in One Precinct, 6 of Them Being Booth Workers.

Richland countians were expected to cast less than a 40 per cent normal primary vote today as they splashed to the polls through ankle-deep slush to nominate two candidates for the 17th district congressional post left vacant by the death six weeks ago of Congressman William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown.

A check of precincts in the city made shortly before noon by The News-Journal indicated that not more than 4,500 voters would cast ballots in the county in today's special primary, called by Gov. John W. Bricker. Approximately 11,000 countians voted for congressional candidates in the 1938 primary.

The inclement weather and lack of interest in the contests for the Democratic and Republican nominations held voting to the lowest mark in recent years in some city precincts. At one place in the city, only nine persons had voted at 10 a. m. and six of them were workers at the voting booths.

Republicans apparently were doing more voting than the Democrats. A Second ward precinct, normally heavily Republican, reported 20 votes cast at 11 a. m. A Sixth ward precinct reported 11 votes had been cast at 10 a. m., including seven by Republicans and four by Democrats.

35,000 Vote In District.

The same lack of interest was reported in the five other counties in the 17th district, and Secretary of State Earl Griffith predicted a maximum of 35,000 votes in the district, made up of Richland, Knox, Ashland, Delaware, Licking, and Coshocton counties.

Political observers regarded the light vote as favorable to Mansfield, Bellville Men Among 95 New Attorneys.

Donald E. Becker, Cook road, Mansfield, and Carl Swadener, R. D. 1, Bellville, were among the 95 who passed recent state bar examinations and are qualified to practice law in Ohio, S. H. Miller, clerk of the Ohio Supreme court, announced today.

They will be sworn in at Cleveland next Monday by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme court.

Henry W. Goranson of Bowling Green made a grade of 90.9 per cent in the bar examinations, highest in the state. The exams were taken by 169 applicants.

Swadener, who is justice of peace in Jefferson township, studied law with Attys. A. S. Beach and Charles Frechafer in Mansfield.

Niagara To Be Restored

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—The rotting old Brig Niagara may soon be as ship-shape as it was the day Commodore Perry dispatched the proud message:

"We have met the enemy and they are ours."

Dr. Donald A. Cadzow, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania historical commission, today disclosed plans for resoration of the famous warship, now tied up to a dock at Erie, not far from the scene of its triumphs over the British in the Battle of Lake Erie during the war of 1812.

DRAFTS $50,000 WPA PROGRAM FOR CITY PARKS

Board to Submit Outline to Council, Seeks to Further Rehabilitation Work.

An outline of extensive improvements in the Mansfield park system calling for an estimated expenditure of $50,000 had been drafted by the board of park commissioners today.

The proposal, approved by the commissioners yesterday will be headed council's park and finance committees with recommendations for a proposed WPA project.

Commissioners said the outlined improvements were sought to further the rehabilitation work in the parks, started last year.

It proposes additional reconditioning of the landscape, construction of shelters, drains and facilities for making the parks recreational centers.

Heading the list of suggested improvements is the construction of a band shell and tool house at Johns park along with reconstruction of the present buildings at the playlot.

Construction of additional recreational facilities at Prospect park and the painting of the buildings as well as new walks is proposed.

Includes All Parks.

Improvements suggested at Liberty park include grading and landscaping and the finishing of a shelter house partly completed last year.

At North lake park painting of buildings is proposed along with the reconstruction of retaining walls along Touby's run. The grading and resurfacing of the parking grounds is also suggested.

Sought at South and Maple lake parks is the grading and seeding, improvement of driveways, construction of an open air shelter house and recreational facilities.

The board yesterday also asked the service director to call for bids on a quantity of lumber to be purchased for the construction of an addition to the North lake park pavilion.

City council set up $1,400 in its annual appropriation bill to build the addition. Park association members plan to use the full amount for materials and construct the addition themselves.

WARRACK GETS ULTIMATUM IN WATER SCRAP

Crafton Tells Him to 'Keep Harmony' Among Employes or There'll Be Change.

PROTESTS IGNORED

Service Director Says Bolley Will Keep Inside Job But Will Share Overtime.

Responsibility for keeping harmony in the city water department was dumped directly into the lap of Superintendent James E. Warrack today as Service Director C. M. Crafton announced he would ignore the petitions from workers in the department and issued an ultimatum to Warrack to "keep harmony or else."

The "or else" was interpreted to mean that if Warrack couldn't handle his own department without friction, the service director would find someone who could.

Crafton said today that the situation will remain exactly as it was before the petitions of water department workers were presented to him last week, with the exception that William F. Bolley, the employe around whom the petitions centered, will share in overtime work.

"Keeping Bolley on the inside while he is in ill health is only such consideration as any employer would show an employe who has been a satisfactory and dependable worker," Crafton said.

Protested Transfer.

Workers had signed their names to petitions protesting the transfer of Bolley back to inside work after he had worked for a short time on the outside. Several who signed the petitions said later they did so because they believed their jobs depended on it.

Crafton said he had called Warrack into his office yesterday afternoon for a conference and had told him then that keeping harmony in his department was a part of his job, and that if he couldn't do it, there would have to be a change in department heads.

Crafton said Warrack had agreed to smooth out the situation.

Crafton took steps today to prevent a repetition of the dam-

'Madcap Merry' Freed, Isn't Thinking of 5th Wedding.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Merry Fahrney, four times married and four times divorced, suggests she is through with wedded life—or at least fed up with titles.

Her fourth divorce was granted yesterday from Count Oleg Cassini whom she charged with infedelity.

The court said she was guilty of the same offense. Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, with an oblique knock at "foreign entanglements," dismissed the defense testimony as "wholly unworthy of belief."

Merry said:

"I am so thrilled. It's heavenly. The decision is marvelous."

She indicated she wasn't thinking of any more marriages, but that in any case she was through with titled foreigners.

'SHOP TALKS' MARK SESSION

Ohio Plumbers Hear Head of Industry at Convention Session Today.

A banquet tonight and a grand ball tomorrow evening are the remaining events on the calendar of the 49th annual convention of the Ohio State Association of Master Plumbers which is being held in Mansfield this week.

More than 400 plumbing contractors from all parts of the state attended the morning and afternoon sessions today which were held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, headquarters of the convention.

While yesterday's business was given over largely to introductions, a memorial service and reading of reports, today's sessions were made up of shop talks. The chief speaker on the morning program was H. D. Bullock, president of the Ohio Wholesale Plumbing and Heating Industry, who talked on the problem of distribution of plumbing and heating supplies.

Another speaker this morning who talked "shop" was E. L. Penfrase of the Copper and Brass Research association. Reports were also given by the apprentice, resolutions, finance and gas committees.

More than 100 wives of convention delegates were taken on a tour of the Westinghouse plant this morning and were served luncheon at St. John's Evangelical church at noon.

BUCYRUS — Kenneth McGuire, 23, of Loudonville, was killed and his two companions were injured, one critically, about noon today when their car skidded on the ice and struck a tree along route 30-N four miles west of Bucyrus.

Taken to Bucyrus City hospital were Maxwell Hoover, 29, Loudonville, driver of the car, and Elmer Wachtel, 22, Loudonville. Wachtel was seriously hurt, suffering a fractured pelvis and fractured ribs. Hoover received fractures of several ribs.

The trio was en route to Chicago when the accident occurred, authorities said. Hoover is the proprietor of a restaurant in Loudonville.

Dem Third Termers Hailing Selection of Chicago.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The scrap for the Democratic presidential nomination was on in earnest today after the party's national committee picked Chicago for the nominating convention and authorized Chairman James A. Farley to fix the date.

Third term advocates hailed the choice—by a single victory vote—as an initial victory for President Roosevelt, who favored Chicago, over the forces of Vice President Garner, who is believed to have preferred San Francisco or Houston.

Charles Sawyer, committeeman from Ohio, told reporters that the president "by all odds is the most popular candidate in Ohio." He added, however, that he did not believe Mr Roosevelt should commit himself now "if he doesn't want to"

Pretty Snow Turns Suddenly To Cold Soup As Rain Falls

Snow turning to soup! That should have been yesterday's weather forecast.

Mansfielders looked out of their windows again this morning to see lawns and parks draped in heavy white.

But by the time they had got to work the fallen snow had begun to "wilt" and the snow that was still falling had the consistency of warm gelatin.

Rain mingled with the snow for a total precipitation of .27 inch during the past 24 hours.

Temperatures averaged 32.5 as downtown streets became greasy with ice and slush. High thermometer reading for the day was 35, low 31. The reading at 9 a. m. was 32, and at noon 35.

Fog hung over the city as well as over most of Ohio. Roads throughout the state were wet but passable. The weather forecast is for rain turning to snow tonight with cloudy weather and moderate temperatures tomorrow.

Silver Shirt Leader Gives Up for Quiz

Pelley Walks Into Dies Committee Office to Face Grilling.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—William Dudley Pelley, Silver Shirt leader for whom the Dies committee has been searching for months, voluntarily walked into the committee's offices today and gave himself up for questioning.

Robert E. Stripling, committee secretary immediately served him with a subpoena.

Pelley is also wanted in North Carolina for violation of a suspended sentence in connection with a "blue sky" law conviction five years ago.

A slightly-built man with a professional demeanor and a Van Dyke beard, Pelley has been the subject of numerous rumors regarding disguises and other artifices which he was said to have employed to avoid apprehension.

But when he walked into the committee's offices this morning his Van Dyke was intact, he wore a blue business suit, a gray tie, and was smoking a pipe.

He told committee investigators that he had decided that he should submit himself for questioning, and having made up his mind to do so, he had wanted to make it appear voluntary on his part.

His appearance came as a house rules subcommittee met again today to consider expunging a speech, by Rep. Hook (D.) Michigan, from the Congressional Record in which Hook used allegedly forged letters purporting to be from Pelley to one of his Washington agents, David D. Mayne.

Hook used these letters as the basis for a "smear" attack on the Dies committee and its chairman, Rep. Martin Dies (D) Texas.

The letters made it appear that Dies was aiding Pelley in avoiding a committee investigation of the Silver Shirts, despite the fact that the committee last fall took voluminous testimony on the Silver Shirts organization from one

$90 FOR FUND

Wrestling Show Helps Boost City's Relief for Finns.

The wrestling show last night at the Mansfield Armory added more than $90 to the Finnish relief fund which is being collected in this area by The News-Journal. Contributions are sent to the national headquarters in New York City which are headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

The fund's percentage of the net receipts of last night's show was $90.10, which boosts the contributions to date to $756.66. The wrestling match, which was attended by more than 700 people, was staged by the Quality Athletic club under the direction of Tim Nolan.

Others who have contributed to the fund within the past few days are Jesse LaDow, Woodhill road, City Class A Basketball league of the American Legion; Mrs. J. J. Stevens, Boughton avenue, and several anonymous gifts.

HELSINKI — (INS) — Still another Soviet division of 20,000 troops beside the annihilated 18th was reported trapped north of Lake Ladoga today.

(INS Staff Correspondent)

RUSSO-FINNISH FRONT, North of Lake Ladoga—By extraordinary luck during the course of a visit to headquarters of the American volunteer ambulance corps in Finland, I found myself today near the scene of a great Finnish victory over the Russians, the details of which are told here for the first time.

In this new triumph for Finland, the entire 18th division of the Red army was wiped out—its 20,000 troops killed, taken prisoner or dispatched to almost certain death by freezing in the frigid wilderness north of Lake Ladoga and east of Sortavala.

As the first reporter to reach the scene I can testify to the extent of the Soviet defeat.

I saw 42 Russian tanks completely destroyed and limitless quantities of war materials of all kinds jettisoned by the Russians over an area of 20 kilometers (12½ miles).

Wounded Russians froze to death in dugouts abandoned by their fleeing comrades. Even the political commissars attached to Red divisions had fled, leaving all their records and papers behind them.

It might be remarked that in Soviet setbacks, the commissars are invariably the first to get away.

Doris, Now Out of Barrymore Play, To Seek Divorce

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Doris Dudley, the 22-year-old blond protege John Barrymore forgot when he was reconciled to his fourth wife, Elaine Barrie, disclosed today that she plans to divorce her second husband, Jack Jenkins, Beverly Hills, Cal., restaurateur.

Miss Dudley is having to give up her role in Barrymore's play, "My Dear Children," to Miss Barrie. She has another job, however, with the road company of "Margin for Error," opening in New Haven, Conn., Feb. 16. She said she might get the divorce when the play reaches Chicago.

At 14, Miss Dudley married Ted Kurrus of Mount Kisco, N. Y. The marriage was annulled and she married Jenkins Dec. 5, 1936. She has two sons, Ted, five, and Jack, two.

She said Jenkins was "the most wonderful person in the world—a great fellow—and there are no hard feelings."

China, United By Invasion, Far From Conquered, Institute Told

Contending China is still far from conquered, Mrs. Marcelle C. Miller last night told an audience of about 500 at the first of four lecture-forums in the Rotary-University Club Institute of International Understanding series at high school auditorium that foreign observers must not be misled by surface appearances in the Orient.

Although seaport and industrial areas have fallen to the Japanese invaders, the vast interior of China remains unconquered and virtually unconquerable, maintained Mrs. Miller, who has spent considerable time in the Far East as the daughter of a French diplomat and as the wife of a U. S. Marine corps officer.

She revealed that the old China, torn by strife of competing warlords and disunited by thousands of native dialects, has been forced into union by the invader—a union of necessity which transcends even the amalgamating force of Chiang Kai Shek, the great nationalist hero.

"And this united China faces her foe on a terrain neatly suited

Driver, Overcome By Gas Fumes As He Slept In Truck, Dies

Overcome by gas fumes as he slept in his truck, John A. Abbott, 31, of Detroit, died at 10 p. m. yesterday in General hospital of asphyxiation. He was found in the truck shortly before noon Sunday, two miles northeast of Mt. Gilead on route 42.

Abbott a driver for the Hess Transportation company of Detroit, was overcome by the fumes from the truck's engine, and was discovered unconscious by another driver for the company who had been sent to relieve him.

The truck had broken down about 8 a. m. and Abbott called the Detroit company asking that another truck be sent so he could transfer the load, an official of the firm said. He then crawled into the truck's cab to rest, leaving the engine running. He was found by the relief driver shortly before noon, and was removed to General hospital by a Mt. Gilead ambulance.

His body was taken to the Wappner funeral home and will be removed to Detroit today for burial. He is survived by his wife, Leola, three sons, Donald, Carral and Bewaine, his parents Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Abbott, four stepchildren, Anna Lee, William, Charles and Dolores Bay, and a brother, all of Detroit.

Developing Motor Habits

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

THE CHILD learns to walk alone between the ages of 11 and 18 months. But he arrives at this achievement gradually. He usually develops in the following order: First he crawls with his abdomen dragging. He then creeps, with the abdomen lifted clear and some teamwork of the arms and legs. Next he pulls himself to a standing position by taking hold of furniture or other objects, and finally makes stepping movements which culminate in walking.

Here are more detailed stages in these developments (for the average child):

Side to side movement of the head, two to three weeks of age. Raises self by the arms, clearing chest, two to four months. Sits with support, three to five months. Sits alone momentarily, five to six months. Rolls from back to stomach, six to seven months. Sits alone steadily, seven to nine months. Creeps, nine to 11 months. Walks when led, 10 to 11 months. Pulls self up to stand by furniture, 10 to 11 months. Stands alone, 12 to 15 months. Walks alone, 12 to 18 months.

Trips Easily at First.

In the early walking stages the baby moves almost as if on stilts, easily tripping over small obstacles. But within the next few years he will learn to run, jump, climb, skip, hop, walk a narrow rail or board, jump rope and so on. It is important during this period for the child to have the opportunity to develop control over his muscles by using them in a wide variety of ways, manipulating many materials.

The young child so develops that he can make the larger movements earlier and easier than the smaller ones. Therefore, modern play equipment is made up of large things which are easy for the child to handle. The tendency a generation ago was to make such equipment very small.

Other Factors.

But as Professor John Anderson says, "While modern evidence and practice tend to support the principle of large equipment, it must not be forgotten that the child's own readiness and interests are important factors in the determination of his activities. Thus, a good environment will not be comprised exclusively of one type, one size or one piece of material, but will contain a variety of materials and play objects.

"One cannot predict high skill in one activity from high skill in another. A boy may throw a ball very well and yet be poor in manipulating a saw or hammer. It follows then, that the environment during the early school years should give the child a wide variety of opportunities for experience in many different situations, for otherwise he can't explore his own potentialities."

A graded list of playthings may be had, without cost, by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS MARY released her young husband from the hug she had given him, I understood why his statement had given her such happiness.

"In the first place, darling," she said, "strange as it may seem, having a beautiful girl play a harp just there is going to improve the scene, and she'll have so few words to speak that she couldn't possibly harm the effect, especially after Auntie Madge has drilled her, even if she were dramatically bad, and I have an idea she'll be good.

"In the second place," she went on, ticking her points off on her fingers, "it'll keep her out of mischief. She won't have time or opportunity to bedevil you and me the way she has been doing.

"Thirdly," she clicked off another point, "It will please your father immensely, and anything that pleases him or puts him in a mellow mood is greatly to be desired at this juncture. Maybe it will soften him so much that he'll forbear to say 'Off with her head!' tomorrow."

"Mary!" Noel exclaimed, distressed. "If he dares!"

"Please!" I interrupted hastily. "Let me give you some time-honored, if slightly shopworn, advice, 'Don't cross any bridges until you come to them'."

"We'll just remember that," Mary said brightly. "Now, Noel, darling, I'm going to shoo you out for a while until I get this through my noodle. Go and take a walk or sit on the veranda and smoke, or do anything else your little heart desires. You'd better prepare for quite a long session, for, if I understand the situation, after we're both letter perfect in our lines, Aunt Madge wants to rehearse us until we can pass muster with your father, and he'll be back—when?"

"A half hour after I telephone him that the harps for Mary have arrived."

"The harps!" Noel repeated, puzzled, and I explained his father's munificent gesture.

"He's getting a bit fatuous, isn't he?" Noel asked with a distinct unfilial note in his voice, but his wife's laugh held no approval.

"You're getting too much bile in your system," she said. "Try to walk it off before you come in again."

Noel rose and, coming over to her, took her by the shoulders and gave her a slight shake before kissing her.

"Don't you get fresh!" he warned her, with a laugh that belied his words, and went out of the door, closing it after him.

"Exit Noel, laughing," Mary commented, looking after him thoughtfully. "Well! that's a good sign, don't you think, Auntie Madge?"

"Decidedly," I said with sincerity. "And now, I'll leave you with these lines. Let me explain them to you."

The explanation took but a minute, but as I turned to go Mary stopped me.

"Just one question," she said, and paused uncertainly

"A dozen if you like," I said, smiling at her.

"No, just one will do. I suppose you want these lines in the same stilted style my papa-in-law drilled into my head, don't you?"

Erase Those Wrinkles

BY MME QUI VIVE.

When a woman complains about her wrinkles some smart lady is likely to hand along the old one about lines giving character to the face. No colsolation at all. She'll take her complexion plain, if you please, without a single crinkle. There is no beauty ill more dismaying, not one more difficult to combat. The right procedure is to foresee their coming take out an insurance against them by giving facial tissues the kind of care that will keep them firm. And not to worry.

Don't place too much confidence in rejuvenating cosmetics. They keep the surface smooth, and that's something. But no cosmetic genius has ever lived who is able to erase facial furrows overnight. Wrinkles go down deep. They burrow in, get a foothold; tissues are like a creased fabric that cannot be ironed smooth. At the first signs of lines, get active. And never forget that it is necessary to work in the cream with light tapping movements to tone the fibers and whisk up the blood streams.

No woman of sense will let herself go to seed nor will she believe that she can go through the pulchritude hopper at the beauty shop any time she pleases and be put all together again. It is not that easy.

While the basic principle of wrinkle fighting is health combined with cheerful sunny disposition local treatment is a wonderful aid. That is if you catch facial gullies in their early stages.

You are dealing with tissues that have lost tone, underlying fibers that have lost resiliency. They're impoverished and sick a-bed. You have to coddle them, nurse them along. They need lubricating and exercise.

Every night after bathing the face with a bland soap and tepid water—heat is not helpful to flesh that is no longer youthfully smooth—rinse with tepid water, dry thoroughly. Use a heavy massage cream. A thin cream won't do; the fingers slip and slide.

Begin with up and down strokes on the neck, upward sweeps from chin to ears. Go over the cheeks and forehead with tiny rotary movements, being careful not to push up the flesh in folds. Force the cream into the creases along the wings of the nose, where blackheads love to congregate.

With the fingertips, do a light hammering, like a five finger exercise on the piano. Give your countenance a brisk spanking to enliven blood streams that have gone sluggish. While the cream remains on, skip over the skin surface with an ice cube.

In the morning use cold water, dry, apply witch hazel or your favorite astringent.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, February 7.

A DAY of surprising developments, with unlooked-for activity in the business, intellectual and social relations, is presaged from the ruling lunar and mutual aspects. These events may have a rather intriguing or mystical complexion, making them memorable and of far-reaching effect on the life and its loftiest aspirations. There might be trivial elements of conflict in the social or domestic associations, but there is promise of fulfillment and gratification. Refrain from impulsive change.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of high attainments with rich fulfillments, possibly of an intellectual, cultural, social or mystical character. There may be deep-rooted or curious undercurrents prodding to notable achievements, subtly affecting the destiny. Business ambitions are lively and promising, but in any relations make no needless changes, and refrain from snap judgments.

A child born on this day may have abilities of a high order, either in an intellectual, artistic, scientific or some unusual creative field.

South bid 2-Clubs to open this deal in a rubber game. North responded with the conventional 2-No Trumps. Then South bid 2-Spades. North 2-No Trumps and South 3-No Trumps. After East led the heart 3, South put down his hand with pride, expecting North to be more than pleased with such an immense dummy.

Poor North could count only six positive tricks, however, his only good chance for extra ones being in clubs. After taking the first trick, he cashed the club tops and led a third club to East. When in again with the heart K, he led another club to East, who cashed his heart Q and put declarer on the board again with a spade to the A.

Thus a total of seven tricks were taken by the declarer, his six top tricks plus one more in clubs. Had North held even the queen and another club, with the suit dividing evenly, game would have been made. But how can a bidder find out such things?

Unhappy experiences with hands of this type have caused more and more players to prefer opening them with a minimum bid, in this case 1-Club, to find out if the partner has enough for a response.

HOW TO TELL if you are CONSTIPATED And What To Do!
How often should your bowels move? That varies in different people. But Insurance Companies who want to protect your health—who want to keep you from constipation with its headaches, indigestion, bad breath, mental and physical fatigue say "1 to 3 times daily."
And here's sensational news about an IDEAL "daily" treatment for constipation. Tests at a World-Famous Hospital have proved that a little daily dose of Kruschen—(world-famous formula now in pleasant tasting, "bubbling" form—actually helps Nature produce her own gentle "daily" complete bowel movements by keeping the waste in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel. Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase dosage."
Kruschen gives you more for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for weeks. Made in U.S.A.

Now Comes in Pleasant Tasting "Bubbling" Form!

DOWN TO EARTH

Director Henry King Likes Small Town Theaters.

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Henry King, the director, will wind up a picture in a few days and be off on another of his aerial tours of the country to see how the boys who run the theaters are getting along.

He talks with the managers, gets their ideas.

"First," he says, "I enjoy it. I've made hundreds of fine friends that way. But more important, it tells me what's wrong with our pictures; what the movie public likes. The glamor and back-slapping in Hollywood is gone. It's mighty valuable."

When King leaves, after retakes on his latest, "Little Old New York," are completed, he'll tell the studio when he'll be back. Until he returns, if his next trip follows the usual pattern, all the studio will know of his whereabouts will be contained in the clippings from small town papers that he dropped in to see a movie.

5 Draw Prison Terms on Guilty Pleas to Indictments

'MAGIC MAN' GETS 90 DAYS IN WORKHOUSE

2 O. S. R. Inmates Who Fled in Stolen Car Sentenced to 1 to 20 Years in Pen.

Five of seven men who pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to grand jury indictments were sentenced to penal institutions by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court.

The cases of two others who pleaded guilty were continued, while two pleaded innocent. Their trials were tentatively set for next week

Roscoe Kauffman, 42, of Elyria, the "Magic man" who admitted collecting funds from Bellville merchants for a magic show last October and leaving town without giving the show, drew a 90-day sentence in the Columbus workhouse and a $75 fine.

"The officers know some magic too, and they usually catch up with slick fellows like you," Judge Huston told him.

Kauffman said his show equipment was "tied up" by Marion autorities for a debt he owed and he couldn't give the Bellville performance.

"You could have given their money back," Judge Huston countered.

James Mayer, 26, and Frank Grigsby, 22, escaped inmates of the Mansfield reformatory, were sentenced to one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary for auto theft.

Drunken Driver Sent to O. S. R.

Henderson Inman, 29, Mansfield, who pleaded guilty to the same charge, was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory for one to 20 years.

Inman said he was drunk and didn't remmember taking Herbert Gibbs' automobile from the American Legion home parking lot Jan. 27 and driving it into the side of another car on Park avenue west, as charged in the indictment.

Judge Huston told him the sentence was mostly for driving while intoxicated although Inman was not accused of that in the jury's indictment.

"And if any more fellows come before me for drunk driving, they won't get by without a prison sentence," Judge Huston warned.

Mayer and Grigsby admitted stealing a car owned by Mrs. Charles Zitzer, Mansfield, to drive to Dayton after escaping from the reformatory several weeks ago. They had been serving reformatory terms for automobile theft.

Two Cases Continued.

John Ickes, on parole from the reformatory, received a one-to-20-year sentence in the penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to an indictment for forgery.

Willie Gaines, colored, and E. C. Hughes pleaded guilty to indictments for cutting with intent to wound and Judge Huston continued their cases.

Arraigned on charges of non-support, Wilson Weaver and William Earl Glick pleaded innocent. Weaver's counsel, Atty. J. V. Will, waived trial by jury and asked Judge Huston to hear the case later.

Cases involving William Lawler, accused of forgery, and Bernard Milligan, indicted for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, were continued and no pleas were accepted from them.

Sheriff E. P. Long is not often surprised at the requests he gets from prisoners in the county jail but he got one today that made him ask again. A burly prisoner who apparently paid little attention to such things as beauty preparations, asked for some face cream. It was supplied, but the sheriff commented: "Next thing he'll be wanting us to arrange him a date."

Mrs Homer Swift, 23 Wood street, is disconsolate today because one of her wedding presents presumably is running around the streets, lost. Mrs. Swift, the former Louise Palmer, was married last June and one of her wedding gifts was a red Cocker spaniel, which was born on her wedding day. Last Sunday when they made a trip to Elyria they left the pup, which answers to the name of "Mitzi," at a veterinarian hospital for the day. About 6 p. m. it got away and ran off without its collar. Breaking a wedding gift is bad enough for a bride of less than a year, but having one run off is much worse.

From now on boys of the Y. M. C. A. boxing classes will have a ring in which to do their sparring, rather than just a big gym floor. A boxing ring, purchased by the "Y," was received today and was erected by Don Cram, physical director, and Will Getz, boxing instructor. The ring, the first the "Y" has ever had, is standard size and fastens to the gym floor. It will be used for class demonstration as well as for the new Bar-Bell class recently organized at the "Y"

FIRE-MURDER

Grand Jury Called in Admitted Slaying and Arson.

(By Associated Press)

WEST UNION — An Adams county grand jury was called today to consider the case of Dorwin Edgington, 26, who confessed the robbery-murder of Mr. and Mrs. Craven Grooms in their one-room home here.

Prosecutor J. H. Lang said he would ask Edgington's indictment on a charge of first degree murder to which he pleaded guilty Sunday before Magistrate W. H. Young.

Edgington claimed in a confession that he shot Grooms, 33, and his wife, Gwendolyn, 38, obtained about $100 and then set fire to the place "just as an afterthought" to conceal his crime, according to Lang.

The maximum penalties on conviction of a first degree murder charge are death or life imprisonment.

STATION POLICE AT GAS PLANT

Toledo Officials Act After Skirmish Between Strikers and Armed Guards.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO—Toledo city officials stationed strike-seasoned police at an Ohio Fuel Gas company plant today after a stone skirmish between armed guards and striking workers.

Safety Director Edward A Deangelo described feeling as "tense." He ordered provoking shotguns put away and instructed patrolmen to prevent a recurrence of the midnight outbreak — first in the 2-day labor dispute.

Appearance of about ten shotgun-bearing guards at the firm's West Central avenue plant, in the heart of the industrial district, precipitated the stoning.

They took their stations—three in a tower high within the fenced plant — about dusk. The pickets grew in number from a dozen to 300 until, in a flare of tempers, the stoning began

Police reserves quickly dispersed the throng as the guards ducked to cover without injury. There were no arrests.

Deangelo feared failure to reach an accord today might bring more "trouble," the plant continuing in operation with workmen brought in from company units in other cities.

MRS. KLOTZ DIES

Burial to Be Made In Bellville Tomorrow.

BELLVILLE—Mrs. Lucy Klotz, 78, former Bellville resident, died at a Mt. Vernon home for the aged, where she had lived for the past 11 years.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Della Miller, Melco, and Mrs. Elizabeth Faust, Mt. Vernon, and a brother, John Ridlett. The body was returned to the Shafer funeral home here where services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with Rev. Joseph O'Morrow, pastor of the Bellville Lutheran church, officiating Burial will be in the Bellville cemetery

BELLEVUE WATCHES ITS WATER SUPPLY AND WEATHER FORECAST

(By Associated Press)

BELLEVUE — If wishing will make it so, this city of 6,500 is due for a deluge.

For days the weather forecast has been prime news as townsfolk scan reports hoping to find predictions for rain to prevent a threatened water shortage.

"We've been promised rain in the next few days," Safety-Service Director George Williams said expectantly.

The city isn't thirsty. Bath and wash tubs are as full as ever So far domestic consumers haven't scrimped on the supply, but—

"If the rains don't come this week, the city will shut off the water supply to three railroads," Williams announced. "The reserve supply is sufficient to last domestic consumers at least a month."

Lack of rain brought the famine threat. This area has had little rainfall since last spring.

The Nickel Plate, Wheeling & Lake Erie and Pennsylvania use about 500,000 gallons of water a day from a deep city well tapping the subterranean river which flooded the city two years ago.

Williams already has advised engineers of the Nickel Plate road, which uses 300,000 gallons daily, water must be hauled from Sandusky Bay to storage tanks here if there is no relief from the threat this week This gallonage then would be available to the city.

Domestic consumption amounts to about 1,000,000 gallons a day, the safety-service director said.

Surrounding rural sections, in Sandusky, Huron and Erie counties, have been affected by the low water level for two weeks or more. Some farmers have been hauling water from cities with adequate supplies and from Sandusky Bay. Others have purchased distilled water for 7 cents a gallon from tank trucks

HEADS T. B. DRIVE

Dr. Fisher Named by County to Direct New Program.

Dr. Lincoln Fisher, Mansfield, had been appointed today by county commissioners to direct the country's new anti-tuberculosis program.

The appointment was made on the recommendation of the county T. B. advisory committee. Dr. Fisher will receive $3,000 a year which will be paid from the county T. B fund.

He will examine T. B. patients and determine whether they shall be sent to state hospitals or treated in convalescent homes.

Commissioners recently purchased about $800 worth of equipment to be used in the county T. B. clinic at the city building. The program will be financed by a half-mill tax levy collected for the first time this year.

OHIO DIRECTOR NAMES FORMER COUNTY OFFICER

Suspected Ex-Official Bound Over to Grand Jury in Belmont County.

(By United Press)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O— Charges by State Pension Director Tom McCaw on file in the mayor's court here today accused Walter L Kildow, Bethesda, former subdivision manager of the Belmont county aid for the aged office, of embezzling of $1138.

Kildow waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to the grand jury under $3500 bond.

McCaw alleged that Kildow, while manager of the county aid for the aged office and later as a district representative for the state division of aid for the aged, misappropriated funds from the accounts of four recipients who had placed certain moneys in trust with the division

Kildow was manager of the Belmont county office from Nov 1, 1935 to May 25, 1936 when he became a district representative. In September, 1937 he was promoted to the central office in Columbus as supervisor of field representatives. He resigned this position, March 15, 1939, to become the Belmont county relief director.

McCaw said that in two of the four cases cited his investigators uncovered evidence to show that only a portion of bonds which recipients turned over to Kildow in trust were actually held in trust and that there was no accounting for the remaining value of bonds turned over to him.

In the two other cases McCaw charged a diversion of funds from bank accounts which had been entrusted to the state division of aid for the aged.

13TH IN STATE

County's Sales Tax Receipts Continue Gains in January.

Still on the uptrend, Richland county sales tax receipts for the third week of January amounted to $8,111, a gain of $780 over the same week last year.

Richland county's collections for the first month of 1940 were $5,524 ahead of January, 1939. State Treasurer Don H. Ebright's report showed Receipts for the month totaled $28,399.

Richland ranked 13th among the 88 counties in Ohio in sales tax receipts for January, being topped only by counties with much larger populations.

In Ohio, receipts for the third week of January totaled $722,447, a 15.7 per cent gain over the corresponding week of last year.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Speaks a Piece On Too Much Education For American People

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Someone should come out with a fearless declaration that there is altogether too much education in the United States, but I will not be the Patsy, because the one who does will be assailed by a dozen universities, normal schools and A and M s, a brick at a time, and I'm still mending my hide where I recently caught the mash notes of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's love lobby.

I may say, incidentally, that although I received many letters beginning "Dear Sir: You Cur," in the era of wonderful nonsense and the $1,000,000 gate, nothing in my previous experience equaled this pouring of the Christian spirit in volume and vituperative power

However, to anyone who is reckless enough to state this proposition I offer some suggestions, the first being that, although the American people are, at a rough estimate, 10 times as educated today as they were in 1900, they are also 10 times as miserable, or, anyway, think they are, which amounts to the same thing.

College education, like oranges, evening clothes and vacations with pay, was a rarity then. The national standard of dumbness was up around 85.

Education began to sweep the land in the first decade of this century, and, as learning has risen higher and higher, the happiness of the people has declined, which may mean that ignorance really is bliss, after all.

Entertainment and travel, too, are commonplace now by contrast with an easily remembered day when a magic lantern or Tom show was a gala event in the hard but generally sufficient line of the American small town.

If people were miserable then, they were too dumb to know it, and certainly they had every right to feel miserable on their low wages for long hours and with no prospect of pension or job security. It is a good thing they got the hard work done before they got educated. Otherwise, it never would have been done.

Present plans for the care, feeding and education of youth have raised the age limit of youth to 25 years. The numbskull has the same right as the genius to keep himself aloof from the practical job of life, and, in a rough way, this means that 25 is to be the economic age of consent.

If that be the case, and if men and women are middle-aged and barely employable at 40, and all through at 50, it seems scarcely worth the bother to fetch up any more Americans. There aren't enough man hours in a man in 15 years of work at the 40-hour or 30-hour week, and 10 years more at reduced speed, to lay up enough credit to carry his get on the public rolls to the age of 25 and to provide for the retirement of himself and wife.

The cost of production, taking the problem as a whole, is so vast that the country might ask itself whether it wouldn't be better to spend the money for groceries, and the quality of this education has been severly criticized by many of the educators themselves.

Americans are, per capita, in both costs and examination marks, the most educated people on earth, but they were never so complaining and discontented in the history of the country. Looking at the figures in the tables, my explanation is that we are suffering from a very bad case of the smarts

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — All the rumblings from this vicinity aren't earthquakes. Most of them are Grumbles.

Maybe there's an actor who doesn't have one. Maybe there's an actor who doesn't give it out—but that's because, at the moment, he's under the ether in a hospital or under the table in a club. Look at the Lamour girl in sarong, which is easy to do.

Dottie wanna be white American girl like true. Dottie wanna kick off sarong and get in real clothes. Dottie wanna say bye-bye to Dottie's trademark — the couple of yards of figured cloth that made Lamour toujours Lamour. Dottie happy now because, in "Dance With the Devil," she's a dance-hall gal. She wears suits, coats, sweaters, skirts even a glamour-gown or two. She wears hats. Dancing with the devil—or with Tyrone Power—she's dancing in real everyday clothes

Turn your gaze on George Raft, who was always crying about the muggs he had to play He hit the lens as a mugg and muggs made Raft. So he leaves one studio to quit playing muggs, and goes to another and clicks double as a mugg.

Listen to Alice Faye. Fayes the top song-plugger, but Faye wants drammy She drammied in "Hollywood's Cavalcade," which was to the good But Faye fans fought for fa-so-la-si-do So furiously they called her back after "Little Old New York" was canned, to add a tune.

Watch ZaSu Pitts' hands wearing through her plaint Drunk scenes I draw one in every picture I don't know why. My daughter watched me do one and she left, very quietly, hating it. So do I I don't drink, and I don't like to see women drunk . . Why must I play drunk scenes?' Give her the answer, all together now 'Because, ZaSu your drunks are convulsion-creators.

Say 'Beautiful Bob' to Taylor and he groans if he doesn't get a quick punch But all that kidding about 'Beauty' got Taylor more public notice than a dozen thickers like 'Lady of the Tropics' and did him less harm. Did him good in fact because he learned to take it grinning

If you want to get Richard Greene's goat, all you need to do is discuss Dimples The Dimples on the Greene jaw are as much a trade mark as Chaplin's mustache Hattie's dittie of 'Stairs' paunch but Greene sees red when he sees dimples Anybody got a good dimple-eradicator?

And Ann Sheridan and Oomph. Where would Annie be without that Oomph build-up? Where, for that matter, is Annie with it? Here's where: she's in a Louis Bromfield yarn called "And It All Came True," and it's that chance she's been needing to show what Oomph could do in the way of acting. Oomph, as far as Annie will allow, has put her on the spot. And she has something there,—something she'd like to forget.

Annie's is one of the legitimate squawks Another was Peter Lorre's. Peter was a comedian abroad until he made a horror picture called "M." He hit Hollywood as a bogeyman and the fright wig stuck. So he squawked himself into comedy again—in 'I Was an Adventuress," with Zorina and Von Stroheim

Bob Montgomery had one too. Bob wanted "out" of play-boy stuff into acting parts "Night Must Fall" and "Earl of Chicago."

And Conja Henie does her squawking to 'stay in" her specialty which is skating. Her last film had only one skate sequence. Sonja fights for more.

'Godoy Maybe Gonna Be Tough! Says Joe of Challenger No. 9

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(AP)—Joe Louis hardly views Arturo Godoy as a serious menace but the Tan Thumper is not one to underestimate a rival.

"Any man liable to be tough," Joe says.

Louis has been training at Doc Biers' camp here for several weeks. He expects to weigh around 200 when he tackles Godoy in a heavyweight championship go in Madison Square Garden Friday.

* * *

"That Godoy fought Galento two times and Tony never knocked him off his feet," he said.

Joe grinned, "Tony sho' had me sitting down, once."

"They say Godoy don't hit real hard, but he can take a punch. May have some trouble with him."

Joe was told that Arturo's best punch, like Galento's, was a left hook. And Galento tagged Joe quite a few times with that looping hook.

"Yeah, but Godoy don't punch like Galento," Joe said. "Liable to be dangerous, though."

The fellows around the champion's camp were talking about Gene Tunney's recent magazine piece in which he said that if Louis and Dempsey had fought at Dempsey's peak, Jack would have kayoed Joe.

Joe's handler didn't agree. They think it would have been a great fight, with Louis possibly going down once or twice but that Joe eventually would have finished Jack.

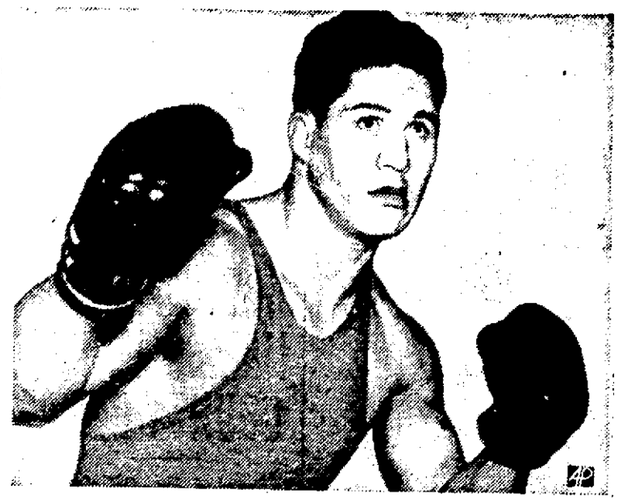
Joe wasn't particularly interested. "Ain't no use talking about it," he said. "Jack was best when he was champion and I'm the best man now. All I'm interested in is taking care of fellows who want to challenge me now."

* * *

And Joe plans a busy year, with probably four fights just as he had in 1939. After Godoy he'll probably tackle another rival indoors in March or April and then schedule two outdoor fights this summer. Galento likely will be one of his summer opponents along with possibly Bob Pastor or Lee Savold.



Invades Ontario For Important Tilt Tonight

Bellville Combine Needs Win Over Warriors to Gain Share of League Crown.

COURT hostilities swing into action tonight on three fronts in Richland county.

Interest in the county league rivalry will undoubtedly center on the Ontario high hardwood where Bellville high tackles Coach Orville Kibler's Warriors.

A victory for the Blue Jays will give them at least a share of the county circuit championship.

While Bellville is attempting to register its ninth league win in 10 starts, the Lucas Cubs invade Butler to face Mentor Bob Burgett's dangerous Bulldogs.

* * *

Union high treks to Shiloh to engage the undefeated Drummer Boys in a non-league setto in the other contest on the program.

Crestline high and Willard are also in action tonight. The Onandagas play at Mt. Gilead, and Willard goes to Bucyrus.

If Bellville comes through with flying colors tonight there'll be a championship battle at Bellville Friday night when it entertains Madison.

Madison, the defending champion, will be fighting to upset the Bluejays in an effort to gain a share of the crown. The Rams have only two games to play and if Bellville drops their last two affairs—the Madison and Lexington tilts—and Madison wins two, the teams will share the title.

Bellville can annex the crown by beating Ontario and Madison.

Only one contest is on tap for Wednesday night. The tussle is between Perrysville and Loudonville on the latter's hardwood.

Two other county league tilts will be played Friday night. They send Lexington against Union at Union and Ontario against the Cubs at Lucas.

In the Twin-Valley league Friday, New Haven performs at North Fairfield. Crestline meets Calvert at Tiffin the same night.

What looms as one of the best battles in the Mansfield Senior high gymnasium this season is scheduled for Saturday night.

* * *

The Tygers entertain the Shelby Whippets and all indications point to a thriller. Mansfield recently took an overtime decision from the Whippets at Shelby.

Bajia Leads Club To Easy Victory

Bajia contributed 14 points last night as the Bears topped the Lions, 30 to 20 in an Intermediate league tilt at the Friendly House. The Red Birds edged the Rams, 29 to 28, in the other tussle.

LUKE APPLING SIGNS WHITE SOX CONTRACT

CHICAGO—(AP)—Luke Appling, one of baseball's old guard holdouts, has jumped the reservation—to the pleased amazement of the Chicago White Sox.

The veteran White Sox shortstop, who during nine years with the club had given officials many a moment of anxiety over annual contracts, surprised Vice-President Harry Grabiner no end yesterday by sending in his signed 1940 document.

1,300 See Champ Win On Card

Billy Weidner Successfully Defended Title at Armory Last Night; Hall Held to Draw.

AN OVERFLOW CROWD of 1300 assembled at the Armory last night for the wrestling matches staged by the Mansfield Finnish Relief Fund committee not only did its part in contributing to the Finnish cause, but also saw a tremendous wrestling imbroglio which included just about everything from slugging, eye-gouging and kicking to good, clean, scientific wrestling.

Members of the crowd saw, among other things, Junior Light-Heavyweight Champion Billy Weidner retain his crown when plucky Walter Stratton couldn't return after the second fall because of an arm injury.

As if that weren't enough, they watched their hero, Davey Reynolds, the hard working Iowa farm boy, win over Bull Marrino in a free-for-all that even had Referee Clete Hoffman "out" on the floor.

In addition to all this, Bob Steele, Mansfield's own contribution to professional wrestling, took a fast and furious bout from Walter Akers, winning in 18 minutes with a crab hold.

Chief interest in the bout centered around the final with Weidner and Stratton battling for the crown. From the start, the crowd's sympathy was with the younger and smaller Stratton, but it wasn't to be.

Stratton started off strong, however, outfighting the bullish Weidner at his own game—the business of overpowering the other fellow by sheer muscle. And the champ didn't like it either, being outmaneuvered by a kid, and decided to do something about it.

Weidner didn't get far, though. So, after about 20 minutes of being out-Atlased, he tried to down Walter with an airplane spin. He spun and spun, only to fall dizzily to the canvas and have Stratton come down atop him, thereby winning the fall.

* * *

There wasn't much to choose between the two in the second fall until Stratton, in an attempt at a flying neck hold, missed connections and hurt his arm on the rope. Weidner worked out on the sore arm, finally winning the match when the arm became so painful Stratton couldn't continue.

The third and final fall didn't come off because doctors advised against Stratton's continuing with the match, fearing that he might incur permanent injury. The match, therefore, was Weidner's on default.

Surprise of the evening, perhaps, was the Masked Marvel's performance against Hall. Stacy, champion and current favorite with fans from coast to coast, took the first fall in 24 minutes with four body slams and a figure four body scissors.

The Marvel's ability to keep his elbow in the champ's larnyx gave him the second fall in 12 minutes

Bushnell's basketballers moved a notch nearer the Grade School basketball league championship by registering their 14th win in the Senior high gymnasium yesterday.

With Bob Jones, the league's leading individual scorer, pacing the attack, Bushnell swamped Hedges, 38 to 6, to take a half-game lead over Carpenter, which dropped a 15 to 11 decision to West Fifth.

Jones, Bushnell center, scored 26 points to boost his season total to 315, 100 points more than his nearest rival.

Prospect beat Newman, 19 to 11, Western stopped Woodland, 13 to 9, and Bowman topped Brinkerhoff, 23 to 18, in the other contests. It was Woodland's 16th straight defeat.

Battle For Loop Crown Thursday

The second round championship of the City Class A league will be decided at Mansfield high school in the second contest of a two-game program.

Westinghouse Electrics and Blue Goose Sohioans will tangle in the title game at 8:30 p. m., with the Shelley Chocolates and Yuncker Sports tangling in the opener at 7:30.

The Westinghouse and Blue Goose teams are undefeated in the second round.

Ohio State Stops Invading Y. M. C. A. Club, 56-33.

By Associated Press

Ohio tossed a small pebble basketball size in the path of international good will last night with the thorough drubbing of Mexico City's Y. M. C. A. cage team by the Ohio State Buckeyes.

* *

The Columbus quintet collected a 56 to 33 victory in half of the state's meager basketball offering. The other contest saw the Toledo Rockets make it two in a row over John Carroll of Cleveland with a 44 to 27 win.

BOWLING SCORES

Clarence Meder Collects a 668 to Set Individual Pace In Club League.

CLARENCE "SONNY" MEDER pounded out a nifty 668 total to establish the individual pace in the Club league at the Meder alleys last night.

Bowling with the Page Dairys team, Meder started out with a 233, added a 192 and then tallied a 243, but his efforts didn't help much as his club dropped two games to the Commercial Managers, led by Harry Frick's 530.

A 627 by Pete Linster was good for second place. He collected his total on scores of 188, 258 and 181, while playing with the Richman Clothes.

The Liederkranz club, paced by Harold Selby's 599, came in with a 2871 team total, which included a final 1016 game. The keglers, however, lost two games to the Schoolmasters, who, aided by a handicap, collected a 2914 score.

INSISTS HE'LL WHIP JOE LOUIS

By GAYLE TALBOT

MIAMI BEACH—(AP)—Trying to talk Billy Conn out of the idea that he is destined to whip Joe Louis and return the heavyweight title to the white race is an absolute waste of time. The kid from Pittsburgh has made up his Irish mind.

* * *

"He'll still be around when I'm ready for him," he insisted. "Sure, he's big. But he doesn't like to be hit, and just wait until I lay this right on his jaw."

I found the 175-pound champ working out in a sweaty gymnasium on the ocean front, starting to get ready for his title fight with Gus Lesnevich here on Feb. 28. Having whipped Lesnevich once recently in New York, Bill didn't seem much interested in that phase of his future.

"You've seen how Louis looks when he gets hit," he persisted. "He looks like a big cry-baby, doesn't he? Hell, he doesn't know anything after he gets one on the jaw."

That was more or less correct, I was forced to admit. But how did Billy think he would bear up under a consignment of Louis rights and lefts?

"He would have a lot of trouble hitting me," said Conn, soberly. "That's part of this game—not to get hit. But I can take a punch. Fred Apostoli hit me a few, didn't he?"

Billy is starting training, as usual, up above 180 pounds. He'll shed it though, in the coming weeks, and enter the ring against Lesnevich at probably no more than 173.

It must be slightly maddening to the Pittsburgh kid, for he realizes that an additional 10 to 15 fighting pounds might well be worth a million dollars to him. With the gymnasiums of the land cluttered with 220-pound ex-truck drivers, and each more awkward and hopeless than the other, it is a tragic irony that Conn cannot put on those few pounds.

* * *

"What the hell," he said. "I'll get those pounds. I was down here once before and I ate more than I ever did in my life. Look at Jim Braddock. He was just a middleweight, and then all of a sudden he went up above 190 pounds and grew over an inch in height."

1,300 SEE CHAMP WIN ON FUND CARD

following an exchange of fists, two body slams and a reverse crab.

In the third setto, the masked one pinned Hall twice only to have the holds broken for roughing. Hall retaliated by pinning the Marvel after a series of body slams, but this too was ruled out for roughness. The match ended at the hour time limit with the boys trading body slams and a welter of fisticuffs.

For honest to goodness excitement, the free swinging, blood and thunder Reynolds—Marrino scrap was tops. They traded lefts. They traded rights. Bull knocked the referee down. The referee knocked Bull down. Reynolds had blood oozing from his scalp and his eyes were swollen shut when Hoffman awarded the decision to him after 12 minutes.

* * *

You know about how Steele, the home town boy, came through. You know, too, that the Finnish Relief Fund is considerably enriched today by the profits from the match. So we'll ask you to make a bow to Tim Nolan, wrestling promoter, for making the show possible and contributing his time to the cause.—J. M.

STAGE ANNUAL DINNER IN CLEVELAND TONIGHT

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The annual dinner of the Cleveland chapter of Baseball Writers Association of America, dubbed the "Ribs and Roasts of 1940," will be held tonight in a downtown hotel.

Guests of honor include Bob Feller, Roy (Beau) Bell, recently acquired Indian outfielder, and Parker Hall the pass-firing rookie who burned up the National football league with the Cleveland Rams last season.

POPEYE— Here's Your Hat—What's Your Hurry?

YA REMAINED IN PORT TWO WHOLE DAYS WHEN YA WAS MY AGE?
THA'S RIGHT, I DONE IT
ARF - ARF
ERF
AFTER TWO DAYS I BCAME RESTLESS, I SAILED ABOARD A CATTLE BOAT AN' WAS GONE SIXTEEN YEARS— YA'LL DO THE SAME, SON
NO, POPPA
A SAILOR LEADS A HARD LIFE. I WANT A LITTLE WHITE HOUSE WITH A GREEN ROOF AN' A GARDING WITH RED ROSES
YAS?
YER JUST LIKE ME. YA'LL SAIL THE SEAS TILL MR. JONES CHUCKS YA IN HIS LOCKER
A GARDING WITH RED ROSES! GNATS!!
POPEYE, DON'T LISTEN TO THE OLD GOAT
HE IS MY POPPA, OLIVE-HE ORT TO KNOW
THE ONLY WAY TO MAKE A SAILOR STAY IS BY INSISKING HE HAS TO GO
I REMEMBERS THAT FROM ME YOUT'

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—By Popular Demand.

By Harold Gray

WELL, TALLY- THAT'S THAT- WE'RE NO LONGER PARTNERS- AS DISTRICT ATTORNEY I CAN'T CONTINUE IN PRIVATE PRACTICE-
OH, JOHN- I DON'T KNOW HOW I'LL GET ALONG WITHOUT YOU-
HA! HA! YOU'LL GET ALONG FINE, TALLY- LOOK AT ALL THE BIG CLIENTS WE HAVE- YOU'LL HOLD THEM ALL RIGHT-
IT WAS YOU WHO BROUGHT THEM, JOHN- BUT NOW YOU'RE PULLING OUT---
MUST BE, YOU KNOW- IF I HAD MY WAY I'D NEVER DO THIS- GAD! I'M NOT A PROFESSIONAL REFORMER- THIS THING'S BEEN DUMPED ON ME-
I KNOW HOW YOU FEEL JOHN-
BUT THE ONWARD AND UPWARD LEAGUE FEEL THEY CAN MAKE EVERYTHING BETTER- YOU SHOULD FEEL PROUD THEY CHOSE YOU AS D. A.-
YEAH! SURE- GUESS THAT MADE IT UNANIMOUS. FROM WHAT I HEAR- WELL, GOOD LUCK-

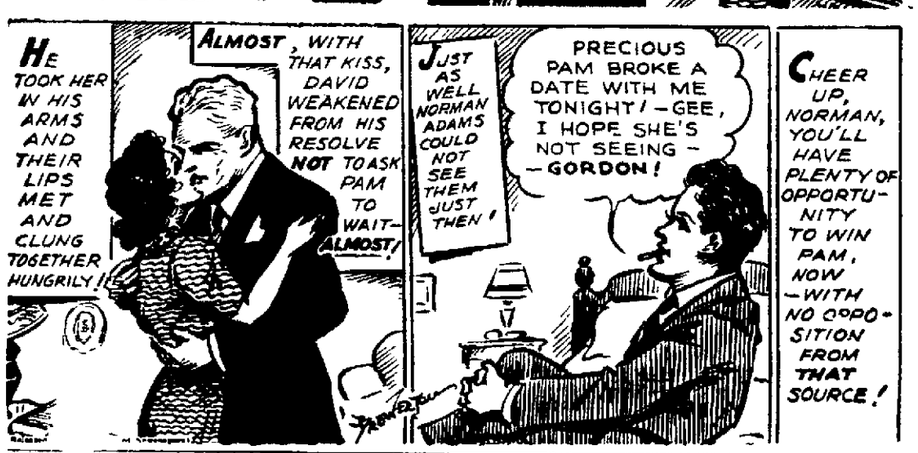
PAM—Good-Bye!

By A. W. Brewerton

DAVID, FOR PAM'S SAKE, ENDEAVORS TO MAKE LIGHT OF HIS TRIP!
AND YOU MEAN I'LL - I'LL NOT SEE YOU AGAIN BEFORE YOU GO?
OH, DAVID! I-I KNOW YOU ARE GOING INTO GREAT DANGER!
I'M - AFRAID NOT, PAM - I'VE LOTS TO DO!
PAM IS STUNNED BY THE SUDDENNESS OF THE NEWS OF DAVID'S DEPARTURE
---IT'S PERILOUS CROSSING THE WATER NOW, TOO! - OH - DAVID - I'LL PRAY FOR YOU! --- DAVID, WILL YOU- -WILL YOU -KISS ME GOOD-BYE?



HE TOOK HER IN HIS ARMS AND THEIR LIPS MET AND CLUNG TOGETHER HUNGRILY!
ALMOST, WITH THAT KISS, DAVID WEAKENED FROM HIS RESOLVE NOT TO ASK PAM TO WAIT- ALMOST!
JUST AS WELL NORMAN ADAMS COULD NOT SEE THEM JUST THEN!
PRECIOUS PAM BROKE A DATE WITH ME TONIGHT! - GEE, I HOPE SHE'S NOT SEEING - -GORDON!
CHEER UP, NORMAN, YOU'LL HAVE PLENTY OF OPPORTU- NITY TO WIN PAM, NOW - WITH NO OPPO- SITION FROM THAT SOURCE!

THE NEBBS—Just a Moment.

FEEBLE EFFORTS UNABLE TO SPUR LAGGING MART

Prices Shift Only Over Part of Point; Dealings Are Extremely Light.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Feeble efforts were made to revive the stock market today but, in most cases, the response was far from promising. Prices generally shifted over a fractional route with plus and minus signs fairly well balanced near the second hour. Dealings were exceptionally small throughout.

Bonds were irregularly higher. Definite trends were lacking in commodities and foreign securities markets.

Although the news offered little speculative inspiration, brokers said, the idea was beginning to gain ground that the market had pretty well discounted the current business recession and might be due for at least a technical comeback. Lightness of selling was viewed as hopeful.

Those watching banking activities for market clues noted statements of reserve member institutions in 101 cities for the week ended last Wednesday disclosing another drop in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans. The latest fall in this item amounted to $21,000,000 and was caused principally by slumps in the New York and Chicago districts.

Followers of the rails scanned estimates indicating last week's freight loadings were up more than seasonally.

Thriller of the Sea.

A thrilling scene which occurred many a time when full-rigged sailing ships ruled the seven seas was reenacted off the California coast, during the filming of "Rulers of the Sea" which opens at the Ohio theater Wednesday. This is an epic picturization of the triumph of steam over sail. Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Margaret Lockwood and Will Fyffe, the great Scottish character actor, have the starring roles. A courageous inventor undertakes to prove the steam engine which he has perfected can drive a ship across the Atlantic. He is helped to the ultimate realization of his dream by a young seaman who has had brutal treatment meted out by the skippers of sailing packets, and by a brave daughter, who wisely guides her father and the man she loves to success.

Sonja at Her Best.

A completely different type of picture for Sonja Henie is "Everything Happens at Night" which opens at the Madison theater Wednesday for a two day run. The famed skating star will be seen in a combined dramatic and comedy role. Ray Milland and Robert Cummings, as two rival newspaper reporters, fall for her and fight for her love as well as for one of the biggest stories of the day. In a thrilling climax the newsmen manage to help Sonja and her father evade foreign agents but how the romance is finally settled makes for a novel and hilarious conclusion. The second feature is George Sanders in "Saints Double Trouble."

Story of the Sudan.

Shown as one of the two features at the Majestic theater today, Wednesday and Thursday is "Four Feathers" which will be seen in technicolor. Brunette June Duprez is co-starred with Ralph Richardson and John Clements in this adventure drama of the Sudan. The story is that of a young man who because of fear and cowardice deserts his regiment on the night of its departure for Egypt to join Kitchener's Army and later redeems himself by completing an extremely dangerous mission. The second feature is "Lady of the Tropics" with Robert Taylor and Hedy Lamarr in the leading roles.

Sequel to Topper.

Constance Bennett and Roland Young play in the hilarious comedy "Topper Takes a Trip" which will open on Wednesday for a two day run at the Park theater. This is a sequel to "Topper," and Roland Young again plays the role of Cosmo Topper, the bewildered banker, who is about to lose his prim and conventional wife, played by Billie Burke. Miss Bennett portrays again the ghostly Marion Kerby, who is anxious to assist the unhappy Toppers in regaining marital happiness. "High Grey Walls" is the second feature for the two days. Walter Connolly, Onslow Stevens and Iris Meredith play the leads.

Romantic Drama.

Leslie Howard, Ingrid Bergman and Edna Best are the starring trio in the domantic drama "Intermezzo," which opens Wednesday at the Ritz theater. This is a drama about a great violinist, who in remembering his youth and the happy days when he was first married, believes that he has fallen in love again with a younger and more beautiful woman. He persuades her to become his accompanist on a concert tour, leaving his family behind, while the two travel Europe. After months of drifting they realize they cannot go on that way. How they solve their problem provides a thrilling and poignant climax. "Let Freedom Ring" with Nelson Eddy, Lionel Barrymore and Virginia Bruce heading the cast is the second feature.

SILVER SHIRT HEAD GIVES UP

Pelley Surrenders Self for Questioning, Walks Into Committee Room.

of its investigators, Robert Barker. He had spent months examining the financial structure of Pelley's various corporations.

This data, which alleged that Pelley had drained the profits of these organizations into his own pocket, was later turned over to the department of justice and the bureau of internal revenue for action.

Pelley, a former Hollywood scenario writer, author of numerous philosophical works and for the last eight years the disseminator of violent anti-Semitic literature, was questioned regarding his whereabouts during the time the committee was looking for him.

"I'd rather not discuss that until I go before the committee," Pelley told an International News Service reporter.

"However, I will say that I was in Florida last week. It was pretty cold down there."

"Why have you avoided a committee subpoena for all these months?" Pelley was asked.

"Because," he replied, "I thought it was not a square deal on the part of the Dies committee to smear me and put me in the same lot with others when I had been fighting the same un-American forces long before the committee was ever created."

Hastily summoned in an executive session behind closed doors, the Dies committee questioned Pelley for about 30 minutes and then took him before the house rules sub-committee.

He told the Dies committee that he had not written the letters to Mayne, and that he had never heard of them or seen them until he read press stories about Hook's speech.

"But I'm not thru' with Winter."

After reading one of our Spring ads, he said, "What's the idea of advertising Spring styles so early? I just bought myself a new pair of skates!"

O. K. Mister, if you're not thru with Winter . . . neither are we.

Donahey Breaks Silence, Calls for Party Harmony

URGES PARLEY OF OHIO DEM ORGANIZATION

Leaves Question of 'Favorite Son' Candidacy Still Wide Open in Statement.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Senator A Vic Donahey (D-Ohio) remaining non-committal on whether he would be a "favorite son" candidate for president, declared today that the Ohio Democratic committee should call a conference of district committeemen in an effort to "promote harmony" in the party.

Donahey's statement, prepared for a luncheon meeting of Ohio Democratic leaders, appeared to leave the question of his candidacy wide open.

Donahey's statement:

"With relation to the selection of delegates to the National Democratic convention, there is just one official procedure to follow:

"The chairman of the state central committee should call all of the Democratic state district central committeemen and committee women to meet at Columbus, Ohio, and collectively adopt a policy to be followed that will be workable and promote harmony. The rank and file Democrats of Ohio expect their official representatives to meet their responsibility."

In some informed quarters, reports were that the senator had suggested the conference in order to avoid an appearance of seeking to dictate to Ohio Democrats. A flat declaration of candidacy might have been interpreted as an effort to dictate party policy, these persons said.

Donahey presumably will make up his mind on whether to run in Ohio if—and after—the suggested conference is held. To enter Ohio's May primary, he must file a declaration of his intention to stand for the Democratic presidential nomination by March 15.

Vice President Garner's friends have indicated that he would enter the Ohio primary in the event Donahey did not run, and associates of Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) have reported that he was considering entering the race if his Ohio colleague was not a candidate.

Charles Sawyer, Ohio National committeeman, conferred with Donahey early this week, and reports spread that he, together with Ohio State Chairman Arthur Limbach, had urged the senator to declare his intentions in the Ohio situation.

If Donahey declined to enter the primaries, it was said, then Sawyer might stand as a favorite son candidate pledged to a third term for President Roosevelt.

Sawyer said he, Mrs. Mildred Jaster, national committee member, and Arthur Limbach, state chairman, expected to return to Columbus tomorrow with full information on the attitude of the house group on what should be done to assure harmony before and after the state primary election.

125 AT DINNER

Elks Honor Seven Past Exalted Rulers of Lodge.

About 125 members of the Mansfield lodge of Elks attended a dinner meeting at the home last night marking "Past Exalted Rulers Night."

Seven past exalted rulers, Don Ogden, Charles Beelman, William Nussbaum, Austin Rhodes, Harry Finefrock, John Kolb and Marion Ward, attended.

Plans were outlined for "open house" observance at the home next Monday night for members and prospective members. Jack Berger, exalted ruler, presided during the meeting.

He Examines 10 'Stalins' and One Was the Right One

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. —(INS)— If the gallant Finnish stand at the Mannerheim line riles the Russians, only two of ten "Stalins" have high blood pressure over the situation.

Whether the biggest Stalin of them all—Joe—is one of the ten is undetermined.

All of this came to light yesterday when C. C. Thomas, a Springfield medical publisher, made public a letter from Dr. F. H. Mosse, an English physician.

Dr. Mosse wrote that a Dr. K. Wenckebach, an Amsterdam specialist, was summoned to Moscow to attend Stalin.

Stethoscope in hand, he waited. In marched ten "Stalins" as identical as Siamese twins.

Dr. Wenckebach put them all to the test and found two with hypertension (high blood pressure.) Dr. Mosse quoted his Dutch colleague as expressing the conviction that "one of the two was the real Stalin."

G-Men Jail Detroiters In Spanish War Enlistment.

DETROIT — (INS) — Invoking a forgotten federal statute passed in 1818, G-men today arrested 12 Detroiters on charges of enlisting United States citizens as mercenary troops in the Spanish Loyalist army. The arrests were made during a series of sudden raids.

The 12 arrested, together with four others whom federal men failed to locate, were indicted by a federal grand jury Saturday, the arrests revealed.

Largest Telephone Directory Goes To 14,491 Subscribers

The 14,491 subscribers of the Mansfield Telephone company received new green-backed directories yesterday and today.

Largest ever issued by the telephone company, the new books have 176 pages, 10 more than the directories distributed last May. In all, the new directories weighed nearly five tons.

They contain the names of 600 new subscribers who have been added in the past year, giving the company an all-time high in telephone users, L. R. Wittemire, manager, said.

The books contain the latest information on addresses of telephone subscribers since copy for the directories did not go to the printers until after Jan. 1, Wittemire added.

Wittemire said all telephones installed in the future by the company will have covered dials, in preparation for the switch-over to automatic dial service in the city next fall.

BALL PLAYER'S WIFE KILLED

Fatally Injured With Cousin In Kentucky Accident.

DANVILLE, Ky. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Les Scarcella, 24, wife of the former Cincinnati first baseman, and her cousin, Helen Vassil, 16, of Cincinnati, were killed late yesterday when Scarcella's automobile collided with a truck near here.

Scarcella and his two-year-old daughter Elair received only minor injuries. Gerrard county authorities said that Scarcella attempted to pass another automobile when he smashed into the truck.

Scarcella was en route to the Boston Bees' training camp at Brandenville, Fla., when the accident occurred. He was traded to the Bees in December.

AFTER 7TH TERM

Whittemore Announces He'll Run For Senate Again.

COLUMBUS—(INS)— State Sen. Frank E. Whittemore (R-Akron) will seek re-election to his seventh term, it was disclosed today.

Whittemore, "Dean" of the floor leaders in the Ohio assembly, is completing his eighth term in the legislature, two of them in the house. He has been Republican floor leader most of the time he has been in the senate.

QUIZZED IN SHOOTING

BELLAIRE—(INS)—A male companion of Miss Betty Matheny, 24, who police said was shot accidentally at a "midnight drinking party," was held for questioning today. Miss Matheny was reported in fair condition with a bullet in her right shoulder.

CRASHES, SAFE

Airline Mechanic Brings Ship Down on Beach.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Richard Persons, 22, of suburban Brook Park, an airline mechanic and amateur pilot, nursed a few minor injuries today after he was forced down on the lakefront when the fuel supply in his light airplane ran out.

Persons, piloting a ship he had just purchased at Fairview, Pa., was headed for Cleveland airport. He had stopped at Willoughby airport for coffee and had taken off again when he noticed that his gasoline supply was running low.

Looking for a place to land, he attempted to set the plane down in a fill by the east side filtration plant, but a wing brushed a tree and the plane crashed.

Persons was taken to Emergency Clinic hospital for observation.

SEX-EDUCATION COURSE HALTED

Mother Protests After Reading Daughter's Notes On Lecture.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A high school girl's notes forced temporary suspension of public school lectures on sex-education here.

After reading notes taken on one lecture, the student's mother complained to school officials.

Charles Otterman, assistant superintendent, described the course as a "newer approach" to the subject, and added: the lectures would be resumed "as soon as we review this matter." A physician and a woman social worker have given the lectures.

CRASH KILLS FIREMAN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — (AP) —An automobile accident killed Horace E. Warren, 40, a city fireman, near Proctorville, O. His car skidded off the highway and struck a utility pole last night.

NEW BOMBINGS ROCK BRITAIN IN IRA ROW

Outrages Believed Protests Against Hanging of Irishmen.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — A new wave of bombings attributed to the Irish Republican army swept England today as the government of Ireland sought to stay the scheduled execution of the two I. R. A. men in Birmingham tomorrow.

Explosions from balloon and acid type bombs used previously by the I. R. A. in its campaign of terrorism shook London's crowded Euston railroad station, the Birmingham general post office, and the post office in Manchester.

Four were hurt in Euston station, two in Birmingham, none in Manchester.

The two men, Peter Barnes and James Richards, are scheduled to be hanged tomorrow in Birmingham for their part in a bombing in Coventry last Aug. 25 in which five persons were killed.

John Dulanty, Ireland's high commisioner in London, was instructed to see Prime Minister Chamberlain today to press an appeal for clemency for the pair.

The guard around the Birmingham jail was redoubled against any effort to save Richards or Barnes or to stage a bombing of the jail as a gesture of defiance.

A postal investigation disclosed that the bomb which exploded in Birmingham was posted just after last night's announcement that Home Secretary Sir John Anderson would not interfere with the executions.

BRITISH BEGIN MEAT RATIONING

Food Minister Announces Quota Effective March 11.

LONDON — (INS) — Rationing of meat will begin in Great Britain on March 11, W. S. Morrison, minister of food, announced in the house of commons today. At present, only butter and bacon are rationed.

Meat rations will be allocated, Morrison said, on the initial scale of 1 shilling, ten pence worth (36 cents) per week for all persons over six years of age and 11 pence worth (18 cents) per week for children under six.

BACK IN PEN

Ex-Jockey, Serving Term for Murder, Returned.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Marion "Slim" Webb, convicted murderer and one-time widely known race horse jockey, is back "home" in Ohio penitentiary.

Warden Frank D. Henderson said today Webb, who walked away from the London prison farm's Lebanon honor camp last Oct. 9, and gave himself up at Los Angeles New Year day, had not yet been assigned duties by the prison classification board.

Webb, 58, was sentenced from Akron July 1, 1924, to serve a life term for the slaying of Frederick Gerhardy, race judge.

At Los Angeles, Webb insisted he had paid the penalty for his crime and unsuccessfully opposed extradition to Ohio.

'Mademoiselle's' Composer To Seek Song's Inspiration

OTTAWA, Ont.—(AP)—The man who composed "Mademoiselle From Armentieres" hopes to return to France to renew his acquaintance with the French girl who inspired his famous song 20 years ago.

He is Gitz Rice, too old for active service but who is helping entertain 2,000 officers and men of the Royal Canadian signal corps at Barriefield camp near Kingston, Ont. He's in the Canadian Legion war service corps.

"I'm going back to England," Rice said in an interview, "to find my pal Red Rowland. Together, we'll help the Legion give the lads the bucking up they'll need and if we can make it, we'll beat it back for Armentieres and find our Mademoiselle, no matter what the shock may be.

"They tell me she's fat and she's fair and she's 40 now and dandles her ninth on her knee."

He will discuss "Freedom—Our American Dynamic." Judge Homer A. Ramsey, Toledo, is also scheduled to speak. John Pierce, Mansfield, will serve as toastmaster.

A highlight of tomorrow morning's session will be a talk by Dr. R. H. Markwith, state director of public health. The final work session of the convention will be held tomorrow afternoon and the annual ball will be staged tomorrow night at the hotel.

Chairman of the committee for the banquet tonight is Herman Hoffman, with Alex Grassick as chairman of the committee for the ball.

SUDDENLY FINDS HE'S BEEN SHOT

Boy Learns Burning Sensation In Chest Is Wound.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — William Andrews, 15, was recovering today from a bullet wound in the chest—after he shot himself but "didn't know it."

He was shooting in the basement of his home last night with a borrowed gun. The gun went off and Andrews felt a burning sensation in his left chest.

Andrews told his parents a few minutes later that he thought he had been burned by gun powder. They investigated and discovered that a bullet had entered his chest. Physicians said it was a flesh wound.

Why Envy a Steak When Eating Spinach?

Here is good news for many who suffer stomach or ulcer pains due to excess acid. It has been found that bismuth coats the stomach lining on the sensitive parts, thus preventing the irritating action of digestive secretions and foods. It enables many to eat hard-to-digest foods, such as steaks and corn beef and cabbage without after-irritation. Udga Tablets contain bismuth and other valuable ingredients in a balanced formula. They have been praised by thousands. Try a 25c box of Udga for relief of ulcer and stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udga Tablets are safe to use and must help or money refunded. At good drug stores everywhere.

BORAH CLASHED WITH F.D.R. OVER FUNDAMENTALS

Kept Personal Relations With President Friendly But Disliked New Deal.

(Editor's Note—The late Senator Borah had friendly personal relations with President Roosevelt but believed the New Deal had failed to solve the nation's major problems. The following article, 15th of a series by William K. Hutchinson, reveals Borah's private opinion of the New Deal.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(INS Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—William Edgar Borah maintained the most cordial personal relations with President Roosevelt but believed the New Deal had failed to solve the nation's three most pressing problems—unemployment, farm relief and monopoly.

One Saturday afternoon, we spent an hour together discussing current problems. I wrote down his summary of President Roosevelt's administration. He said:

"The president hasn't done a thing to remedy the fundamental economic plight of our people. I asked a Democrat last night to point out one single law he's asked congress to enact that would remedy the underlying situation. And he couldn't name one. No one can, because the president hadn't advocated any.

"The country is no better off today than when he started. Oh, it may be said he is keeping people alive by paying them benefits, but he hasn't done a thing to give our people an opportunity to make their own livelihoods for themselves.

"And he hasn't really helped the farmer. He's paid benefits to farmers for not using their lands. He hasn't done a thing to help the farmer make a living by using his lands. Why, he's even lost the farmer his foreign markets.

"One of these days, there will be a terrible crash. We can't keep on going as we are.

"We must curb monopoly and the president hasn't done a thing to curb monopoly. We must give our people a chance to earn their own livings instead of living off federal charity. And the president hasn't even attempted to solve that problem.

"He proposed judicial reforms that were not judicial reforms but merely an effort to grab more power for himself. And he shied off from the great constitutional problem—that of submitting such questions to the people themselves for a decision. He was afraid to do that. He feared defeat in that forum."

War Over Colonies.

Another day he told me of telling the president there would be no European war in 1939. To quote him:

"I told the president that if they go to war in Europe, they will be warring over the colonies the allies stole from Germany when they had her on her knees. I told him that wouldn't be of any possible concern to us and he shook his head negatively."

Borah often chuckled over reports he had promised Mr. Roosevelt to support him for reelection in the 1936 campaign. As it was, he refused to support the GOP nominee, Governor Alf M. Landon. When I asked him point blank whether he had pledged support to Roosevelt in secrecy, he replied: "I never commited myself."

But he always declined to reveal what discussion he did have with the president about the 1936 campaign.

Borah often suspected the president would confer with him on the 1940 campaign. If the president did consult him, Borah told me he was going to advocate the nomination of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana. He added he would never support any of the New Deal crowd.

Once, after lunching with the president, Borah said:

"I don't know why he sent for me unless he looked over his book and saw I hadn't been to lunch in a long time. I got the feeling though he was running out of advisers—that these wild fellows weren't of any help to him when he stopped going their way and he didn't want to call in the old Democrats for fear he would be accused of surrendering to them."

GIRL AT THE FRONT + + + + +

CHAPTER XVIII

Frantic with fear and worry Claire cowered in the little secret room for half an hour before she heard Roland and Frau Weber leave the flat. She remained in her hiding place for another half hour to be sure the coast was clear, and then spent the rest of the afternoon pacing the floor.

What could she do? She didn't know where Bill Cameron was being held or she might have desperately started out alone to attempt to reach him. Try as she would she could think of no way she could help, and finally she gave up, worn out by the strain.

She suddenly remembered Bill's note, and read and reread it several times. It wasn't much, but it was something—it was proof that he was still alive and well, and while he was alive there must be hope. She prudently decided to destroy the note to avoid any danger of its being found in her possession, and after burning it in an ash tray, washed the ashes down the kitchen sink drain.

Lili Weber finally came home and in spite of her protests, Claire insisted upon helping her prepare the evening meal. It helped to keep busy. Lili, of course, had heard nothing. She hadn't even come through her mother's shop. She had come around through the alleyway. The best she could do was to console Claire.

"We've helped many people out of just as desperate situations," she said. "I'll admit it may look pretty hopeless to you, but mother and her friends really can accomplish miracles at times. We must hope that they're successful again."

"It will take a miracle," Claire commented, despondently.

The American girl's spirits were tremendously lifted after Frau Weber finally came up the stairs, and she had run to her to hear if there was any further news of Cameron.

"Don't be tearing yourself to pieces with worry," the woman chided. "The wheels are turning—we have things under way. If they work you shall see your sweetheart before you expect it."

Claire was too excited to even blush at the German woman's assumption that she and Bill Cameron were sweethearts, and demanded to know exactly what was being done.

"I can't tell you, child," Frau Weber said. "because I don't know all the details myself. It's always best never to know too much about anything when you're doing the sort of work I do. So I didn't ask."

"But there is a chance?" Claire demanded, her eyes shining with renewed home.

"A chance, yes. A good chance, I believe. I know the plan is to get Herr Cameron out of the old palace tonight. If things go right, he should be here about 7 o'clock and we must be ready to hide him in the little room. I got hold of some more supplies a few tins of sardines and other things."

She picked up the small basket she had carried in with her and took it through her bedroom and into the secret room behind the wall panel. Claire followed and helped her place the things on the shelf.

"Both of you may have to stay here for several days," Frau Weber went on. Claire was fairly dancing with excitement. She took it as an accomplished fact, already, that Bill somehow would be rescued and brought to the flat in a little more than an hour.

"Don't get your hopes too high, child," the woman warned. "It's a risky business, you know, and many things may happen. All we can do is hope that everything goes all right. Both of you will have to stay here until a plane arrives from France to take you back."

"You've done this before, Frau Weber—many times?" Claire asked, watching the woman as she methodically prepared the room far an extra guest.

"Yes, my dear, I have. I know you distrusted me when you first came here—I could see it in your eyes. I can't blame you. After all, why should I, a German woman, be working against my own people this way?"

Her tone of self accusation was so sharp that Claire had a sudden feeling of fear, which dissolved as Frau Weber continued.

"I'll tell you why. I know you must have wondered about it. They murdered my man." Her voice, ordinarily soft; was harsh now with an understone of hate that revealed the depth of her feelings.

"Murdered him?"

"Just that. They called it a purge, but it was plain murder. Franz was a Nazi, a loyal one almost from the very start. He saw that something desperate was needed to arouse Germany after the ruin of the World war, and when this man Hitler came along, while not agreeing with him in all particulars, he embraced his philosophy and worked hard to help build up a new Germany. Not a brutal, swaggering, bullying Germany, but a nation of which we all could be proud, which once again could hold up its head in the world and become a place where people could live once more in happiness and peace. That was my man's goal, and he thought it was the goal of the Nazi leaders."

She paused for a moment, took a handkerchief from her pocket, and wiped the tears from her eyes before she went on

"After Hitler came to power, when he had the country firmly in his grip, Franz for the first time saw what sort of man he really is. Franz hated to believe it at first, but evidence piled up so overwhelmingly that he couldn't believe anything but that the man was crazed by a distorted ambition for power and a determination to take a terrible revenge on the world for Germany's defeat in the World war. Franz went along with the party for a time—he was high in its councils then—hoping to bring about reform from within. He had to work carefully, for even then one ill-advised word was likely to bring the wrath of the Nazi leaders down on you and your family."

Frau Weber sat down on the cot and Claire seated herself beside her.

"Maybe all this doesn't interest you?" she said.

"It does, tremendously. Please go on," the girl urged.

"Well, Franz, working quietly, found others high in the party of the same mind as himself. They were horrified at the brutalities against non-Aryans, especially the brilliant scientists and scholars who had contributed so much to Germany's culture. Franz and a few of his friends decided to save as many as they could, so they built this little room here. It formerly was an alcove in our bedroom. They had to work very secretly, of course, but by establishing an underground railway, similar to the one anti-slavery people operated in your country before the Civil war, they managed to get many persons, marked for death or brutal persecution, out of Germany.

"Suspicion eventually fell on several of them, but they worked so carefully that nothing could be proved. Our flat here was searched dozens of times in our absence—we knew, because it was clumsily done. This room was never found, and no incriminating evidence.

"But suspicion is enough in Germany now, and Franz and many of his friends were marked for the so-called blood purge. The Nazis told the world they were put out of the way for immoral practices, blackening the reputations of some of the finest men who ever lived. It was merely that Hitler and his lieutenants sensed that they were silently opposing Nazi rule, so they destroyed them."

"How did you and Lili escape?" Claire asked.

"George Roland—a powerful friend of Hitler's—personally interceded for us," Frau Weber answered. "Roland had been in the army with Franz—had known him since boyhood. He was living mostly in Paris, a secret agent of Hitler. He had gone to America after the war and lived there for a time, so when he came back he assumed the disguise of an American and was sent into France in the espionage service."

"It was fortunate to have such a powerful friend," Claire commented.

"Yes. He happened to be in Berlin at the time of the purge and he was horrified when Franz was shot down in cold blood, Lili and I, too, were marked for a concentration camp or worse, but he pleaded for our lives and so they let us alone, although we've both been closely watched ever since.

"When I recovered from the shock of Franz death, I sought out a few of his former associates who had escaped the purge and carried on where he left off. To avoid suspicion, at George Roland's suggestion I became a secret agent of the Gestapo. I serve them, as well as serving the true friends of Germany—France and England."

"Then that explains why Roland comes here!" Claire exclaimed.

"Yes—I owe him our lives," Frau Weber said, simply.

* * *

Lili appeared outside the opening to call them to dinner, but just at that moment the warning buzzer sounded.

Moving with amazing speed, Frau Weber leaped to her feet, closed the panel, and Claire was alone in the secret room.

A minute later she heard voices in the apartment—Frau Weber's and Lili's and the voice of George Roland. She had a spasm of fear as she glanced at her watch and saw that it was just a few minutes to 7.

Bill Cameron was supposed to arrive there by 7 o'clock!

Paint-covered furniture has endured for over five thousand years in Egyptian tombs and is still in good condition. Oftentimes, wall paintings have likewise endured the passage of time whereas wood and stone that were not painted have disintegrated.

Britain Reveals Super-Ambulance Trains Now Ready

LONDON—(INS)—Since the outbreak of war super-ambulance trains have been waiting at their appointed stations "somewhere in England" to be put into service.

On board each of these "casualty specials," consisting of twelve coaches, 270 stretcher cases can be accommodated.

They are equipped for the distribution of injured persons from first-aid stations to base hospitals in the country in the event of serious air raids. In addition to electric lights, the ward cars are fitted with emergency hurricane lamps and have steam heating.

One compartment is fitted with cupboards containing dressings, drugs, disinfectants and such medical comforts as brandy, meat extracts, malted milks, lime juice, and the good old English standby—tea.

The crew of each train consists of one medical officer, one train officer, three sisters, two assistant nurses, six auxiliary nurses and eight orderlies. They are billeted near the trains.

Juvenile Crime In New York Blamed On Lazy Janitors

NEW YORK—(INS)—Lazy janitors are responsible for much of the city's juvenile crime, in the opinion of Park Commissioner Robert Moses.

In a report prepared for the mayor, Commissioner Moses puts the total number of juvenile delinquency arrests in 1939 at 5,000, while in 1937 there were only 4,000.

The report attributes the increase in such crimes to the lack of recreational facilities available to students after school hours and during vacations.

"Youth and adults are barred at night from several hundred gymnasiums," the Commissioner declared, "so as to satisfy the demands of a politically powerful group of lazy janitors, over whom the school authorities seem to have little control."

In the summer, when the student leaves the class room, "the school playgrounds are locked, or at best operated only a limited part of the day."

The report concluded that "all recreational resources of the city should be available to the public at all times."

DOWNS CULPRIT

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—(INS)—Patrolman McQueen may not be a baseball pitcher but he certainly has control. Spotting a man wanted by the law, McQueen chased the fugitive into an orchard and felled Louis D. Wentenberg with a true aim at 30 feet. The object hurled was a hard, green apple.

A LOT LOWER PRICED THAN MOST PEOPLE THINK!

9 OUT OF 10
A recent national survey shows 9 out of 10 people think a Pontiac costs an average of $100 more than it actually does in relation to lower-priced cars. Don't let this mistaken idea keep you from investigating Pontiac. Don't buy any low-priced car until you compare its price with a Pontiac. The slight difference will amaze you.

HERE'S WHY SO MANY THINK PONTIAC HIGHER PRICED THAN IT ACTUALLY IS!

BIG CAR DIMENSIONS AND APPEARANCE
Add a few dollars to the price of the lowest priced cars and get a big Pontiac, 4 inches wider at front seat, 8½ inches longer from bumper to bumper than last year!

THE "TRIPLE-CUSHIONED" RIDE
Do you get car weary on long trips? Get a Pontiac and relax. Pontiac's "Triple-Cushioned" ride is worth all the slight difference between Pontiac and lowest-priced cars.

EXQUISITE, WIDE-VISIONED INTERIORS
Ever wish your car were larger? Pay a few extra dollars and get a Pontiac. It's wider-seated, wider-visioned with Hy-Test Safety Plate Glass in all sedans.

THRILL PERFORMANCE
You only have to go to the first traffic light to sample the thrill performance in Pontiac's power-packed engine.

IT IS DIFFICULT to make people realize that Pontiac is priced just a few dollars above the lowest.
They simply haven't been accustomed to associating low price with a car that has the reputation, looks, size, luxury and performance of cars costing up to several hundred dollars higher.
Come in and take a look at this sensational new money's-worth of motor car. See how much bigger and roomier it is. And don't leave without trying its new "Triple-Cushioned" ride and the flashing performance of its power-packed Pontiac engine.
For the best ride on four wheels and the best miles of your life, get a 1940 Pontiac!

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1940

Good behavior is so common that it seldom makes front page news.

For wars that are not admitted to be wars, those European affairs seem to be entirely too rough.

Look again, it may not be a foreign stamp after all—possibly it is just another of the infinite variety Mr. Farley is offering his customers.

Civilizing City Traffic

OUT of the hodge-podge of traffic regulations of various sorts, which were hastily thrown together in an effort to reduce traffic accidents and increase safety of pedestrians, a more systematic handling is being gradually developed.

Special attention is now being given in many cities to teach pedestrians how to cross streets, walk safely on wet or icy pavements, observe traffic lights, avoid bumping into people and being alert and aware of surroundings when moving about in public places.

Further development of these civilized habits can be helped by organized efforts of city officials and traffic officers. The American Automobile association speaks especially of the good work done in recent years in helping drivers and pedestrians by means of warnings and guide signs showing them clearly where to drive and what lane or what turn to use.

In this work, signs painted on the pavement often help as much as the traffic lights do. The herding of pedestrians in the right directions on crowded streets is almost an art in itself. When once mastered, it adds immensely to the safety and convenience of the public in getting around town.

A little jocular appeal to human nature always helps, too. "Jeepers Creepers, Use Your Peepers!" read a sign in one city's seething public square. In St. Petersburg, Fla., visitors find signs like "Slow Down and Pass Up Accidents" and "Be Good to Yourself: Please Don't Jaywalk!"

Suggests Later Labor Day

APPARENTLY with some seriousness, an organization of soft drink bottlers in the east is suggesting that Labor day be changed from the first to the second Monday in September—with school opening also deferred until after Labor day, as has become the custom.

The frankly stated purpose of the proposed change is to lengthen the summer resort season a week, thus increasing sale of soft drinks and other liquid and solid refreshments.

It has been noted that fine weather frequently continues for a week or more after September's first Monday, although this has become the traditional closing time for practically all popular summer resorts.

Hitting upon the first Monday in September as the date for general observance of Labor day in the United States was somewhat accidental, in any event, and since Thanksgiving has already been jockeyed around, as a trade stimulant, there seems no particular reason why Labor day shouldn't be similarly treated if the change would be beneficial to any considerable group.

Just how the proposed delay in school opening would work out is an entirely different matter, and it is quite likely that Labor day will continue for a considerable time as the first Monday in September—just as it has been since 1884, when its observance was started.

Girls On the Road

RAILROADS have observed increasing numbers of women and girls stealing freight car transportation in the last year or two. Now Jeff Davis, "king of the hoboes," is asking juvenile authorities and social agencies to do something about the situation. The "dizzy dames" are driving men off the road and the hoboes do not like it.

"There are at least 5,000 girls between the ages of 16 and 22 hitch-hiking across the country and swarming through the hobo jungles," he complains. "They're the greatest menace to American society. Ignorant of the pitfalls, they try to act tough. Many of them carry guns. They have brought a curse on every itinerant in the nation."

Is this development a result of the depression and the lack of jobs for a lot of young women? Or does it come from the greater freedom of girls today which encourages them to seek adventure in more dangerous ways?

Whatever the cause, the problem is serious. Parents, schools, social agencies, police and juvenile authorities all have an urgent job to do.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Neither John L. Lewis of the CIO nor William Green of the AFL can swing the vote of his labor organization this way or that way like so many potatoes in a bag.

This view is held by many observers in Washington. John L. claims to have swung the vote of his labor clans to Roosevelt in 1936. But everybody knows now that if he hadn't swung them that way they would have trampled him in the stampede.

At the convention in Columbus of the United Mine Workers, Lewis said President Roosevelt could not be elected to a third term, and left a haunting impression that he would oppose the president if he tried it. Immediately Presidents Dubinsky and Hillman of the two powerful and populous needle-trades organization indicated their belief that Lewis was speaking too fast and also through his hat. Hillman's organization is CIO; Dubinsky's used to be.

Best guess: Lewis has more certain influence over his Mine Workers than over the CIO in general. Because of that he can swing a mean pick in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, particularly in choosing house members. But he can't make the million or more mine workers jump from the Roosevelt of 1936 to, say, a Taft, McNutt or Garner of 1940, just by telling them to.

* * *

AS TO Mr. Green, he heads a house politically divided within itself, so he has cagily ducked any solid commitments, for or against anybody. Because Lewis at the moment is looking admiringly at Senator Wheeler of Montana, AFL sentiment likely will be against him—but not altogether. Daniel Tobin's teamsters and George M. Harrison's railway clerks like Wheeler's senatorial record.

On the other hand, William Hutcheson, president of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters, and Matthew Woll, another AFL big stick, will be plugging for no Democrats whatever since they are Republicans.

Farm Security: At this moment the bedeviled peasants in northern Rumania don't know who will harvest their next summer's crops, and it doesn't seem to matter to them much. Part of Germany's trade agreement with Rumania was to plant soy beans and other crops in Bessarabia at Nazi expense. Now they don't know whether to plant, for fear the Russians will get the crop. If the Allies move in, they will get it. If nothing happens, Germany will get the crop.

One thing certain, the peasants will have little say as to where it goes, peace or war. It is already bargained away before ever the farmer sets plow to his land.

Why Have Any Tax-Exempt Bonds?

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Against the New Deal objective of eliminating tax-exempt bonds there is very little that can be said. Every president for many years has wished that it could be done, but until Franklin D. Roosevelt, all have thought it impossible.

It still looks pretty tough, but high New Dealers, including the president and Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, are insisting now that it will be accomplished.

But its accomplishment will by no means achieve the results which are generally claimed in political speeches. It will not, for instance, open up the tremendous new source of revenue, both for the federal government and the states and cities, that most speakers claim. Most of the difference after tax exempts have passed into history will be a bookkeeping change rather than a real increase in revenue.

For example, a man now holds $100,000 of City of Baltimore three per cent bonds, for which he paid something in excess of par, so that he is actually getting a return of about 2½% on his money. He does not have to pay any federal income tax on this annual income from the bonds, and he does not have to pay any local tax to the state of Maryland.

* * *

LET'S imagine that those bonds, under the new dispensation, are no longer tax-exempt. In order to market them, the city would have to sell them on at least a four per cent basis. The man's income would jump up, on paper, and he would pay just about the difference between his new income and his old income in additional taxes.

This is true—on the average—because the price at which tax-exempt bonds can be sold, or more accurately the interest return on money put into tax-exempt bonds, is figured absolutely on the value to the investor of this tax-exempt element.

So both the federal government and states or smaller taxing units would have to pay higher interest rates on their borrowings, and then would collect the money back in higher tax returns, on the average making very little difference to either the investors or to the governmental treasuries.

Why then all the opposition to outlawing tax exempts?

For the simple reason contained in that word "average." In the first place, individual states, cities and counties think they get the best of the deal as compared with the federal government. They think that men and women with very large incomes buy their securities in order to dodge the top brackets of federal income taxes. And they are right. They do not worry about their own resulting tax losses because they see only the big investment in their local bounds by rich men and women in cities outside their own taxing power. They do not see tabulations of their own residents who own federal bonds, partly to escape federal taxation, but also to escape local taxation.

THE probability is, however, that the states and cities and counties do get more than their share. To put it another way the change to abolition of tax exempts would probably hurt the local taxing authorities a little more than it would hurt the federal government in the net result.

But the chief reason for eliminating tax exempts is that it would be a step in the direction of normalcy and fairness. Persons of fairly small income ought to be able to get a better return plus security when they put their money in government bonds. They would if it were not for the competition of big-incomed buyers who are thinking in terms of high surtaxes. And, to use the stock argument, the very big incomes ought not to have this refuge at all.

Health and Diet

Pneumonia Now Under Control.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PNEUMONIA is under very good control today. This is due to the researches of the past few years. Two methods of treatment have been proved to be effective in pneumonia. One is the use of vaccines for the different strains; the other is the use of a drug, sulfapyridine. There is no reason why both methods of treatment cannot be carried out.

Penumonia is caused by a germ, the pneumococcus, which has many varieties. The proper serum must be selected to fit the exact variety which the patient has. This is now done rapidly by methods of typing known in all laboratories. Type III pneumococcus is resistant to any serum, but yields to sulfapyridine.

All these procedures can be left in the hands of the attending physician.

Know Early Signs.

What is important for the patient to know is that during this kind of weather, a sudden pain in the side, with or without a chill, with a feeling of great prostration and oppression in the chest, accompanied by fever, probably marks the onset of pneumonia. At least, the symptoms call for a consultation with your family doctor. Since early treatment leads to the best results, and since the doctor has effective early treatment, everyone should stay on the conservative side and call for medical consultation when even a suspicion exists.

Influenza, the other great dangerous respiratory disease, is, like the common cold, probably a virus disease. The virus has been cultivated in ferrets.

Influenza tends to visit the world in cycles of about 26 or 30 years apart, with a severe world-wide epidemic. Whether the mild epidemics of generalized infection called "influenza" in the intervening years, are really influenza, is doubtful.

Hope for Vaccine.

If it is proved that the ferret virus is really the cause of influenza, we will have a way of checking up on clinical opinion. We may also hope that a vaccine which will be useful in prevention and treatment of influenza, will be perfected before the next great world-wide epidemic appears.

The best article I have seen on the subject of influenza in recent years is in a Chinese medical journal. They appear to have the real thing there yet, which is significant because influenza usually comes out of the East. It may be that the whole world will pay for the ambitions of Japan in disrupting the population of China and the hygienic control that the new China was beginning to exercise over its people.

Tracking a Brain Truster.

It is one thing to shout "Down with bureaucracy." It is something else actually to help oust a Representative. Today a Wisconsin Republican from our neighboring district is doing his part. He will try to have the House seize Benjamin V. Cohen, of the New Deal legislative writing team of Corcoran and Cohen from the public payroll.

Mr. Cohen is charged with having helped frame New Deal bills which Congress rubber stamped because congress upon President Roosevelt's demand. Mr. Cohen is one of those bright young men of the New Deal who have posing commissions. However, he goes to the national power policy committee for his pay check. At least that is where Representative [illegible] says [illegible] Cohen [illegible] Day.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Disclosure that the late Senator Borah left $207,000 in currency and government bonds in a safe deposit box literally floored his senate intimates. For years they had known him as a poor man who on more than one occasion had bemoaned his failure to make money in private law practice, as other members of congress did.

One of these instances occurred last spring just before the Washington visit of the British King and Queen. Borah was in the Republican cloakroom chatting with several colleagues when one of them remarked that his wife had "nicked" him that morning for a new dress to attend the British embassy garden party.

"I wish I could buy my wife a new dress," remarked Borah dolefully. "I'd like to be able to do that, but I just can't afford it and make ends meet."

"Bill," asked one of the group, "why haven't you practised law on the side? It's perfectly proper. Many members of congress do it, and make good money too. I just heard the other day that Burt Wheeler got a very handsome fee for defending a California race horse owner."

"Yes, I know that's done," replied Borah. "I know of a former senator who was paid $40,000 in a case that actually amounted to little more than the use of his name. I could have had big fees, but while it's perfectly proper, I've always felt it just wasn't the right thing to do. My constituents elected me to represent them. They hired me and I've always taken the attitude that it was a full-time job.

"Anyway, it's too late for me to begin practising law now. You can't teach an old dog new tricks, and Mrs. Borah will have to do without a new dress. There are other values in life besides money and dresses."

Note—Borah's $207,000 savings chiefly were from insurance policies which had accumulated and which presumably were left for Mrs. Borah's protection. The senator never mentioned this to his wife and the nest-egg came as a complete surprise to her.

Smoothie John Hancock.

DURING the monopoly committee hearings on investment banking, Robert Lehman, brother of New York's governor, got appendicitis and was unable to testify regarding the Lehman Brothers banking firm. So John Hancock, another Lehman partner, testified in his place.

Hancock's testimony was a masterpiece of toning down the assertions and implications of SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson and committee council Nehemkis. After the session was over, Henderson shook hands and told Hancock:

"Well, if Martin Dies calls me as a witness, I'll get appendicitis and have you testify in my place."

Cotton Storage.

WHEN able little Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts took the floor last summer during the debate on the barter-cotton classification bill and urged approval of a provision to store 300,000 bales of government-owned cotton in New England, the house rose as one man and cheered him.

The amendment went through to the tune of one of the most cordial bi-partisan ovations accorded a member of congress. It is doubtful, however, if the popular Republican floor leader would have offered his proposal if he had known what was going to happen afterwards.

Today those 300,000 bales, three per cent of the total government holdings, are the center of the bitterest undercover brawl in the career of the Commodity Credit Corporation, custodian of the cotton.

Cause of the melee is a deal which the corporation claims was made between James Joseph O'Donnell, New York and Boston cotton broker, and a group of New England warehouses for a brokerage commission on the lucrative storage fees. O'Donnell, who has powerful Washington influence and lobbied for the legislation, lined up a number of warehouses and appeared on the high road to getting a 10 per cent commission, when the Credit Corporation stepped into the picture and upset his apple-cart with two edicts:

(1) That any cotton moved to New England would be allocated to warehouses purely on a competive basis; and (2) that no contract would be awarded to a warehouse that was under an agreement to pay anyone a fee on government business.

* * *

Fighting Back.

THE Commodity Credit Corporation's action handicaped O'Donnell, but it didn't floor him. He returned to the fray, operating through friends on Capitol Hill.

One of the closest of these is South Carolina's Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, who, although he has yet to make his appearance at this session of congress, sent a terse note to John D. Goodloe, vice-president of the Commodity Corporation, instructing him to "please see to it that the 300,000 bales of cotton are moved out promptly to New England." In this communication Smith also referred to O'Donnell as "an old friend of mine."

Other congressional intimates also have been burning up the wires in behalf of O'Donnell, but so far the Commodity Credit Corporation has stood its ground.

Good Neighbor Tires.

A UNIQUE Good Neighbor experiment has just been arranged by the General Tire and Rubber Company, which will set up a tire factory in Venezuela.

Instead of going in as American oil companies did in Mexico, and owning the project itself, the tire company has gone into partnership with Venezuela. Venezuelans will put up half of the capital, and will manage the factory. The engineering supervision, however, will be in the hands of Americans.

Venezuela will get cheaper tires, and the General Tire and Rubber Company will have an investment much less subject to "Mexican" confiscation.

The Seed Catalog

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE CLERK at the village postoffice smiled as he handed me, among other pieces of mail, the first seed catalog. To both of us it suggested early spring, newly planted gardens, and green fields sleeping in the sun.

When I came home this large loose envelope was the first I opened. The catalog had smooth thick yellow covers. Upon one side was printed the newest types of large hybrid zinnias, bright asters and fragrant petunias. On the other were white and scarlet breakfast radishes, luscious peas with partially opened pods, blood red beets, crisp snap beans and sweet corn, all in natural colors—or better.

For 65 consecutive years, the seedsman says, he has supplied his customers and friends with field and garden seeds. This year he has more variety and better quality seeds than any year he has been in business. A wonderful work, indeed—to furnish seeds that beautify the garden the lawn and the roadside. Seeds that furnish fresh fruits and vegetables for all the land. Seeds that fill the human heart with hope and dreams. Seeds that work the homely miracle of peace and well being.

What can I buy with such a small amount of money that will give me so much value in return? Not only value in dollars and cents often that is small but that other value which feeds the soul [illegible] of the inner man.

A [illegible] plants a garden, then with hoe and bare hands pulls weeds and cultivates it so that they grow fresh vegetables throughout the growing season, keeps the source of happines and well being. What they have done is elemental and fundamental, and the strength and power it gives somehow gets into the very bloodstream.

When seed companies do a thriving business the country is in a healthy condition. Ordering seeds to plant a garden is basic to the American way of life. There are few who cannot afford a garden, and those who lack the vision of what a garden means are those who need one most. The sallow anemic, the mentially weary, the financially overburdened—all find in the moist warm earth a source of strength and health and peace. A garden is oftentimes better than medicine.

WRITER TELLS OF ANNIHILATION OF RED DIVISION

Reaches Scene of Finn Victory Over Russians, Finds Road Strewn With Spoils.

the Soviet losses, but the amount of equipment I saw abandoned along the roadside leaves no doubt what ever that at least an entire division was put to rout. And I was able to inspect only one segment of an 80-mile front.

The first sight that met my eyes was an abandoned military truck --belly upwards—which had tipped into a ravine beneath a dynamited bridge.

Most of the bodies of its occupants had been removed, but one booted leg was still visible. The Finns while mopping up all corpses they can find to guard against pestilence when the spring thaw comes, did not have time to fish out this lone reminder of battle.

The road to the front was lined with hastily abandoned field-kitchens, the corpses of horses lying with distended stomachs and perpendicular legs, tarpaulin-covered stacks of gasoline drums, fire-gutted tanks, and mounds of steel helmets, rifles, shellcases, cartridge-belts and bayonets.

Further on, I saw two trucks which looked more or less like school buses which had been fitted out for regimental field commissars. They contained individualized details of regimental personnel, elementary text-books or geometry and trigonometry and geographies that showed Finland "properly" in Russian territory.

Maps found in these cars showed Finland likewise. One big chart had Finland printed in red, with a thin green line to delineate the present frontier.

Driving onward in a Finnish staff car, I found the road deserted except for occasional road-sweepers and Finnish sentries.

Abruptly, things took on a grimmer tinge. First there was an air raid warning and then a long trudge through the forest to beautifully concealed Finnish batteries.

I noticed that although the guns were Finnish some of the shells were Russian. They fit precisely, but according to the gunners, their explosiveness is uncertain.

We drove on for about five kilometers and I began to find out more about it when they spotted a Finnish sharpshooter atop a hillock. He was looking immensely pleased although his target was invisible to us.

His rifle was a beautiful job, with a 13-inch telescopic sight and he cuddled it like a baby. I wanted to know if the rifle was a regular Finnish army issue. He grinned:

"It's just been issued to me—by the Russians.

"The Russki who owned this rifle had been sniping at me for four days. So last night I went out and got it."

He patted the butt lovingly and continued:

"The Russians shouldn't have guns like this. They are rotten shots."

But some of the Russians are not such bad shots, for only a quarter mile further toward the front we passed a sleigh carrying a soldier sitting upright with his right arm roughly but correctly strapped across his chest. He saluted the staff car with his left hand, and was surprised but courteous when I asked him how he was wounded.

"I stopped two tanks so they sent out a patrol to stop me," he said.

"My gun was good for tanks but no use at short-range, but after they winged me I got two with my pistol and then they left me alone."

Big Canadian Freighter Sunk.

LONDON—(AP)—Loss of a big Canadian freighter by torpedoing was reported today as Great Britain and France shaped their national structures for an unremitting battle of bread and meat this spring.

The admiralty informed officials of the Canadian Pacific Steamship company that its 9,874-ton Beaverburn, of London registry, had been sunk. Another merchant ship was reported to have rescued 76 of the crew of 77. Indications were the sinking occurred yesterday.

BEGINS SESSION

New Petit Jury Hears Appeal From Municipal Court Decision.

After a series of postponements, the new January term petit jury begins its session today, hearing an appeal from a Mansfield municipal court decision.

The case was appealed by Archie Cornell, plaintiff, after the lower court refused to award him commission he contended was due on a real estate deal. Defendant in the action is Martha Burger.

Atty Frank S. Culp filed the appeal for Cornell while Atty. H. H. Schettler represents the defendant.

JAIL BREAK

These 'Clinkers' Got Through The Grating, Says Dog Catcher.

LIVERPOOL, Mo.—(AP)—Dog Catcher John Vaught [illegible] ested the city council in building a new dog pound. "We tried putting them in the city jail but they crawled out the cracks," he said.

to guerilla warfare which the Chinese have adapted and practically impassable to the supply trains of an expeditionary force," she said.

"Japan is hungry," Mrs. Miller asserted.

"At home there is a shortage of food. There is also imminent a shortage of war materials following the abrogation of the U. S. trade treaty. And Nippon's industrial structure is a strange melange of principles copied from the Occident and actualities developed at home. Most of the manufacturing, as well as the agriculture, is carried on by 'the small people.' Small farms and home-made products will comprise the bulk of Japan's production.

"Having lost face with their people at home, Japanese militarists now turn to watch the European war eagerly. Out of the failure of their own Blitzkrieg they hope to salvage a vast slice of the East Indies. They see Britain as a decadent empire, and wait only for a German invasion of Holland as a signal to pounce on the wealth of the islands to their south.

"In the background of their plans the Japanese must always consider the war with Russia that is bound to come out of the clash of interests on the Siberian border and in Siberian waters. The present truce is only to permit each side to take care of urgent matters elsewhere."

Both Russia and Japan know they must eventually fight each other for Oriental supremacy, Mrs. Miller insisted.

During the question and answer period following her lecture, she said the Communism of China, like that of France, vanishes in the face of a crisis involving the whole people.

Mrs. Miller was introduced by William M. Weldon, past president of the Mansfield Rotary club and chairman of the club's international service committee, who also presided during the question and answer period.

Several breaks in the amplification system and the accent of her native Paris distracted slightly from the force of Mrs. Miller's lecture although she appeared well grounded in her material.

FAIL TO PASS LEGISLATION TO RAISE PAY

Action on Promotion of Junior Patrolman to Be Taken at Next Meeting.

SHELBY—A promotion and pay raise for Junior Patrolman William Ewalt of the Shelby police department, recommended by Police Chief Leroy Coffey, was tabled by city council Monday night until the next regular meeting of the council.

The promotion would give Ewalt a regular patrolman's post on the force and would raise his salary $15 a month.

Mayor William Morris asked council to hold the matter over until the next meeting so that an ordinance could be drawn up raising all junior patrolmen to regular patrolmen's posts at the completion of three years' service and giving them the regular patrolman's salary of $140 a month.

Ewalt, the only junior patrolman in the department, would get his promotion and pay under this ordinance as he has completed three years of service in the department.

City council amended the city's plumbing code at the meeting by an ordinance raising plumbers' licenses from $5 to $25 a year. Under the amended section, the plumbers will have the next five days to get the licenses for $5 and then the licenses will cost $25 unless it is a renewal of an old license. Renewals will still be $5.

Renew Old Schedule.

The old salary schedule for the city engineer and assistants was again passed by the city council at the meeting upon recommendation of the auditor that the ordinance be passed every two years. The scale is for city engineer, $1.25 an hour; rod and instrument men, 75 cents an hour; and ax men, 50 cents an hour. The same scale was passed July 6, 1937.

Other business approved by council was the transfer of $1,727 from the PWA improvement fund for the water works' to the water works' fund; a resolution authorizing the mayor to employ a city engineer, and petitions that were received and filed for extension of the curb and street improvements on Fourth street to East Smiley avenue, and extending the sanitary sewer lines on an alley between Raymond avenue and Auburn street.

HOLDS SESSION

Council to Consider Amending W. 4th Paving Project.

When council meets tonight at the City building it will consider amending the West Fourth street paving project to include the block that runs east of Main to Diamond street.

Council authorized city officials to negotiate with WPA for the paving of West Fourth street last Nov. 16, and although it has been approved in Washington by the WPA director, it is being held up by state highway authorities. The original plans called for paving Fourth west from Main street to the city limits.

Council also is expected to receive a building code which will be presented by the Building Trades Council. A copy of the code was sent to the office of Mayor W. J. Locke and to Clerk of Council William Beer yesterday.

SLUSH AND RAIN REDUCES VOTE

4,500 Expected to Cast Ballots in County in Special Primary Today.

Walter B. Woodward of Bellville, Republican nominee two years ago. He was expected to have the full support of the Townsend organization.

Seeking the Republican nomination with Woodward on the Republican ticket were J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, majority floor leader of the Ohio house of representatives, and Col. Oliver H. Dockery, jr., of Newark, defeated by Woodward in the 1938 primary.

McGregor has the endorsement of Republican organization leaders in the district and he has conducted a lively campaign by mail.

Dems Have Free-For-All.

There was a free-for-all battle in the Democratic ranks, with six candidates in the contest. They were Byron B. Ashbrook of Johnstown, nephew of the late congressman; Frank Cave, Mansfield, former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives; Ben A. Arneson, professor at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware; Atty. William Haas of Delaware; Burch Ferenbaugh, Danville, and Atty. George J. McDonald of Newark, son of B. F. McDonald, former state prohibition commissioner.

The two men nominated today will be opponents in a special election Feb. 27 when a successor to the late Congressman Ashbrook will be chosen.

A. F. Porter, clerk of the county board of elections, said the election machinery, assembled hurriedly for the special primary, apparently was working smoothly. No complaints had been received at noon, he said.

The city's two state liquor stores were closed during the day, following the usual procedure for elections. They were to open at 7:30 p. m., however, and remain open until 10 p. m. Polls will close at 6:30 p. m.

Voters in the 22nd district, comprising Lake, Geauga, and a part of Cuyahoga counties, also went to the polls today to nominate congressional candidates. The total vote there was expected to be less than 65,000.

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, widow of the congressman whose death several months ago left the congressional seat vacant, was unopposed for the Republican nomination. Two Democrats, however, one a former congressman, sought the party nomination.

Anthony J. Fleger of Parma, 22nd district congressman in 1937-38, was opposed by Merritt A. Vickery Lakewood councilman. Fleger had the endorsement of Townsend old age pension clubs.

While there was little statewide interest in today's primaries in the two districts, the elections in three weeks will be observed closely for an indication of New Deal popularity in Ohio.

11 Per Cent Hike In Assets Listed By Shelby Firm

An increase of more than 11 per cent in the assets of the Shelby Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company was reported yesterday at the 60th annual meeting of the firm's policy holders in Shelby.

L. A. Dennis, president of the company, and other officers were re-elected. H. G. Hildebrant is vice president; J. J. Crum, secretary; G. S. Denins, treasurer; L. M. Dunathan, assistant secretary, and S. S. Kerr, assistant treasurer.

The company, oldest mutual casualty insurance company in the nation writing more than one line of insurance, has assets amounting to $1,710,237, the annual report showed. Its net surplus Jan. 1 was $540,292.

The Shelby firm specializes in plate glass insurance, but it writes automobile, burglary, and a number of other general liability polices.

Directors of the company are Phil G. Wuertz, George M. Gray, S. D. Inscho, Roy VanWagner, H. G. Hildebrant, L. A. Dennis, J. J. Crum, L. M. Dunathan, and G. S. Dennis.

age caused early yesterday morning when a cable carrying electric wires from the police and fire signal boxes to city building was accidentally slashed by workmen from the water department. A similar accident occurred the latter part of last year.

All of the water line leaks had been repaired and the signal wires replaced last night. Today Crafton issued orders that the blueprint maps of the signal lines should be hung on the walls of the water department office and must be consulted before any digging is done in the city. He also issued orders that water workers must get in touch with City Electrician Ernest Adams before cutting through streets.

He reminded workers of the rule to notify Fire Chief Charles J. Seeberger, immediately when a street is dug up or barricade erected as a precaution in case of fire in that district.

MANSFIELD BUSINESS IS GOOD!

Bank Clearings In January Up Million Dollars Over 1939

Mansfield's bank clearings started the new year over a million dollars ahead of January, 1939, Barney Burns, secretary of the Clearing House association, reported today.

Clearings for the first month of the new year totaled $7,018,606, a gain of more than a million dollars over the corresponding month last year and $116,000 ahead of the December clearings.

Reflecting a decided increase in a month when business usually drops off following the holidays, the January clearings forecast a marked uptrend in Mansfield's business for the year.

While the payment of Christmas bills last month was seen as a contributing factor in the increase, the figures were still well ahead of 1939 when January clearings showed only a slight increase.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

BUSINESS SESSIONS HELD BY SORORITIES

Miss Doris Mann Reports Convention When Entertaining Delta Theta Tau; Beta Sigma Phi Has Program on Music.

TWO of Mansfield's social sororities met yesterday evening for business and social sessions. Miss Doris Mann entertained Delta Theta chapter of Delta Theta Tau at her home on West Third street. During the meeting, the hostess gave a report on the sorority convention, held recently in Richmond, Ind. The group is planning to have a business and social meeting on Feb 19 at Mrs Ward Ingraham's home on West Third street. Miss Thelma Reed, Miss Harriet Roth and Mrs. Homer Swift will be the associate hostesses at that time.

Miss Dorothea Grimes was hostess for a meeting of Beta Sigma Phi sorority yesterday evening at her home on Marion avenue, with Miss Doris Goodenough as her associate. During the business session, a sales tax report was given and membership plans were discussed.

The program was in charge of Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer, who explained the difference between absolute and expressive music. She illustrated her talk by playing several recordings. Mrs. Howard B Peck presided when refreshments were served from a table centered with an arrangement of fruit. The meeting of Feb 19 will be at Mrs. Peck's home on Braeburn road, with Miss Dorothy Horchler assisting.

Club Work Light As Many Attend Special Affairs

A great deal of shifting in schedules, and re-arranging in programs of study groups took place yesterday as a result of extra activities scheduled in the city. The first lecture in the series of the Institute of International Understanding which is being sponsored for the third successive year by the Mansfield University and Rotary clubs drew heavily from the study club members to practically fill the main floor of the high school auditorium last night.

Mrs. Marcelle C. Miller was the speaker on "Problems in the Far East." Another affair which drew largely from attendance at study clubs was the annual Y. W. C. A. dinner meeting at the First Congregational church.

As a result of these two important affairs the Monday Study club moved its meeting up to tonight. Mrs. Henry P. Huston will entertain. Several other groups regularly meeting on Mondays also had a change in date resulting in an unusually light Monday schedule in club and social circles.

Distribute Programs For St. Luke's Class

Programs for the Daughters of Ruth class of Luke's Lutheran church were distributed this week, and disclosed arrangements for the regular monthly meetings of the organization throughout 1940. Officers this year are Miss Sarah Krumm, president; Mrs. E. E. Schafer, vice president, Mrs. Neil Remy, secretary; Miss Clara Cassel, assistant secretary, Clara H. Miller, treasurer, and Mrs. Irene Hines, teacher.

The February meeting will be an event of Feb. 19 with Mrs. Remy and Miss Cassell as the hostesses. Mrs Hazel Reese and Mrs Ernest Koerper will present the program and devotions.

Auxiliary Plays Novelty Bridge

A social meeting was conducted yesterday afternoon by members of the Women's auxiliary to the Richland County Medical association when members met with Mrs. J. L. Stevens, 59 North Mulberry street. Irs R. C Rheder was associate hostess, and tea was poured at the close of the afternoon by Mrs. W. W. Peirce.

Novelty bridge was played at six tables High prizes were presented to Mrs. Frank Maxwell, Mrs Lincoln Fisher, Mrs. Louis McCullough and Mrs. L. C. Nigh Low prize winners were Mrs. K. T. Langacher, Mrs. Leopo'd Adams, Mrs. C. R. Keller and Mrs. R. D. Campbell.

The next meeting will be held at the Women's Club March 4 with Mrs. Roy Curry and Mrs. D A. Weir as hostesses A program will be given at this session.

TEAM MEETS.

Members of the Degree team of the Pocahontas lodge met with Mrs. Julia Grandstaff, Wood street, yesterday. Following the routine business meeting five hundred and bunco were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Martha Reichert, Mrs. Effie Kellner and Mrs. Nellie Phipps. The next meeting will be held March 4 with Mrs. Nora Mink, Hedges street.

HOSTESS TO CLUB.

Mrs. Rufus Dickson entertained members of the Charter Bridgers last evening at her home in Windsor. Mrs. Howard Hyatt, Mrs. Dickson and Mrs. Gerold Dudley won the score prizes. Mrs. Herbert Cline has invited the group to her home in Ashland for the next meeting, Feb. 19.

Business Women Assisting With Student Survey

The Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club is cooperating with Miss Mary M. Aikin, Columbus, who is studying at Ohio State university on the Lena Lake Forrest scholarship given by the national B. and P. W. club in her job survey being conducted throughout Ohio. Miss Aikin, who is in Mansfield this week, was assisted in obtaining the names of women workers in Mansfield by Marvel Cowell, Minnie Laudon, and Margaret West.

Miss Aikin, who took her degree in journalism at the University of Illinois, is now studying personnel work in the psychology department at State. She will interview both members and nonmembers of the business women's clubs in 16 cities throughout the state of Ohio. Her tour, which began in December, will last through March when she will resume study at the university.

From the information gathered during the interviewing of more than 300 women Miss Aikin will write her doctorate paper. From this she is planning to prepare a vocational guidance book suitable for girls of junior high school age.

Miss Aikin plans to interview about 30 Mansfield women during her stay here this week.

MEET TOMORROW.

Members of the Willing Workers society of the Little Washington church will meet tomorrow with Mrs. Verne Richards, Upper Lucas road.

Plumbers Auxiliary At Opening of Convention

-News-Journal Photo.

When the Women's auxiliary to the Master Plumbers association opened its state convention here in conjunction with the 49th annual convention of the Ohio State Association of Master Plumbers yesterday, the president of the Mansfield organization, and the state chief got together immediately to talk over the business and social program for the three-day period. Mrs. Karl F. Shambaugh, left, Mansfield official, is discussing the affair with Mrs. Sam Shelton, Youngstown. Headquarters for the convention are at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, and the women had a luncheon meeting today at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. This evening the two groups will have their banquet at the hotel.

Mrs. Eliot Presents Review Before Chi Omega Alumnae

MRS. PAUL ELIOT reviewed E. P. Conkle's "Prologue to Glory" last evening during a meeting of the Chi Omega Alumnae club at the home of Mrs Earl Gaar, 380 Shepard road. Mrs. Harold Lentz of Ashland was the associate hostess.

The club president, Mrs. Robert Rick of Crestline, conducted the business session, at which time Mrs. Douglas Thomas of Bellville was welcomed as a new member. In addition to the routine reports, announcements also were made by Miss Wilma Walker, social chairman; Miss Marianne Springer, program chairman, and Miss Florence Robison, representative of the Dental Clinic.

Following the program, Mrs. Ralph Lyons of Detroit, Mich., who was a guest for the evening, presided at the luncheon table, which was decorated with red, white and blue appointments, in keeping with the patriotic theme of the evening and the month.

A style show and musicale will be events of the next meeting, March 4, when Mrs. Eugene Miller of Loudonville and Miss Mary Jean McCormick are the hostesses. Miss Martha Buesser, Miss Walker and Miss Springer are assisting the hostesses with arrangements for this affair.

SOCIAL SESSION.

Miss Mary Jasinsky was hostess to members of Les Femmes club last night at her home. Following the social hour a two-course luncheon was served at a table decorated with candles and sweet peas.

GIVES PARTY.

Beverly Mertler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mertler, who celebrated her seventh birthday yesterday, was surprised by a group of 14 of her young friends at an afternoon party given by her mother. Games and contests were the diversion of the afternoon, with prizes going to Virginia Harshner, Donna Baker and Joan Herring. The refreshment table was decorated with a cake and candles and individual favors. Valentine streamers were suspended from the chandelier above the table.

GROUP LUNCHEON.

Members of the Civic club had a luncheon meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Sidney Palmer, West First street, during which they made plans for the annual Valentine luncheon which they serve to members of the Sunshine school at West Fifth street school on Feb. 14. The next meeting of the club, which is also the welfare committee of the Mansfield Federation of Women, will be held March 4.

LUNCHEON HOSTESS.

Mrs. L. H. Lehman was hostess for a luncheon meeting of St. Peter's guild yesterday afternoon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Bridge was in play at three tables following the business session, and prizes were won by Mrs. Leo Perl and Mrs. Charles F. Tharp. Mrs. William Green of Columbus was a guest for the day. The guild will not meet during Lent, so the exact date and the hostess for the next meeting will be announced later.

NAME Y. W. BOARD AT ANNUAL DINNER MEET

Official Posts Filled for 1940; Reports Given By Various Group Leaders; Miss Frances Hutchison, Oberlin, Guest Speaker.

MEMBERS of the board of trustees and the nominating committee of the Young Women's Christian association for the 1940 season were announced last night at the annual meeting which was held at the First Congregational church at 6:15 p. m. The board includes Mrs. R. G. Averill, Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Miss Maude Cunningham, Mrs. Paul Eliot, Mrs. Fred Kelly, Mrs. Marshall Moore and Mrs. F. L. Tracy.

Those on the committee are Mrs. Philip Corey, Mrs. F. L. Hanson, Miss Dorothy Stephenson, Mrs. G. W. Hypes and Mrs O. L. Seybold. Mrs B. L. Chase, chairman of the retiring nominating committee, announced these new officers.

Miss Margaret A West, general chairman, gave her report of the association statistics. There was a total attendance last year at the Y. W. of 21,251 persons at 1,053 events. During 1939 3,252 persons attended events held in the building but sponsored by 209 different outside groups.

The placement department found employment for 303 girls, while 77 girls were placed in rooms by the room registry and 64 were housed in the building.

Miss Frances Hutchison, librarian at the theological library at Oberlin, was the guest speaker. Her topic was "World's Conference for Christian Youth." The conference was attended by 1700 delegates who represented 70 countries and 220 different religious backgrounds. The conference dealt with the church and with the world of nations. It was an educational conference, the theme of which was "Christ triumphant," conducted in three languages.

The program included vocal music by Mrs. Robert Barker accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Burneson, Miss Emma Waring leading the devotions, reports by Mrs. Dalton Deeds, Mrs. Mary Gilbert, Miss Violet Richardson, program secretary, Miss Marjorie Boals, Mrs. Raymond Simmons, Rita Ann Young, and music by Miss Charlet Cellars, flutist, accompanied by Margaret Hall. The reports included information about all the various divisions and departments of the Y. W.

Mrs. Moore, president, conducted the meeting which was planned by Mrs. Eliot and Mrs Corey. A costumed skit entitled "The History of the Y. W. C. A." was given by LaDonna Bonecutter, Mildred Stone, Eileen Bemuller, Margaret Kraus, Marilyn Kyner, Ilene Dysart, Evelyn Griffith, Ruth Wesson, Glenna Mae Zuxter, Mary Lou Holdeman and Marjorie McClure. Mrs Thornton Moore was the director.

The Pleasant Way to Correct Constipation

Why let yourself in for all the discomfort of constipation—and then have to take an emergency medicine—if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your difficulty, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted cereal—a natural food, not a medicine—has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day, it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew!

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

New Hats Give Fore-Taste of Spring Fashion

This is the way you may look this spring in a 1940 version of the position built of burnt straw braid, high-crowned, dip-brimmed and finished with a bow of green and white dotted crepe.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.
